

EXPERT OPINIONS CLASH IN HYPOTHETICAL QUESTIONS PROPOUNDED BY ATTORNEYS IN HENRY MURDER TRIAL FACTS SET FORTH IN QUESTIONS ARE SUPPOSEDLY SIMILAR TO THOSE BROUGHT OUT IN EVIDENCE DURING HEARING

Dr. Norbury and Dr. Dollear Indicate Belief in Insanity of Defendant—Opinions of Dr. Crouch and Dr. Bowe Opposed to This Theory—Evidence Concluded at Court Session Friday Night—Argument by Counsel to Begin at 8 O'clock This Morning—Case Likely to Go to Jury by Four O'clock This Afternoon.

At eight o'clock this morning Judge Norman Jones will open the Saturday sessions of the Morgan County Circuit court and the final chapter of the Henry murder trial will be under way. The evidence in the case was concluded at 9:30 o'clock last night and by agreement between the court and attorneys the argument will be limited to five hours and twenty minutes. The court instructions will probably take up another hour and the case should be in the hands of the jury at four o'clock this afternoon. The attorneys will speak in the following order: J. Marshall Miller, William T. Wilson, John M. Butler, E. E. Hairgrove, William N. Hairgrove and Judge M. T. Layman. Judge Layman will have an hour and half to close the case, at the afternoon session and all other speeches will be made in the morning.

The special interest in the court proceedings Friday centered about the testimony of the medical experts who testified. Dr. F. P. Norbury and Dr. A. H. Dollear gave evidence as to mental and physical examination of Henry since he has been in jail. In answering a long hypothetical question which purported to present facts similar to those proven in the Henry case they declared the facts narrated indicated insanity. In rebuttal the prosecution placed Dr. E. L. Crouch and Dr. Edward Bowe on the stand and in giving answer to a second hypothetical question supposedly giving facts similar to those proven in the Henry case they testified that the facts set forth indicated sanity.

It was a day during which the jurors probably heard more about mental diseases than most of them had ever known before and they were called upon to battle mentally with such terms as phrygmomanometer, cerebrosplinal, psychopathic, ambulatory automatism, constitutional inferiority, polydeale somnambulism. Aside from the experts the most important witnesses of the day were Richard Megginson, Lucilla Henry and Raymond Henry.

Brother Recalls Poor Health Indications.

The first witness of the morning session was Jesse Henry who was examined by Mr. Wilson. He referred to a conversation he had with his brother on the farm one day last summer when he had particular occasion to notice that John Henry looked pale and thin and that his eyes were sunken. The witness told of a visit made to his home in East St. Louis last December when the defendant complained of not feeling well and he suggested a course of Turkish baths might help him. He said they went together that night to the Belcher bath house and stayed all night and that John Henry conferred about taking a series of twelve baths there in the hope of getting physical relief. The witness testified also to noticing that the defendant's memory had for a number of months been equal to what it had been previously.

Next to be examined was Miss Hazel Wyatt. She said that she knew the defendant and his family and had been visiting there from the Saturday before the occurrence until that day. She said that Mr. Charles Eard and his wife, were at the home of Henry and they were the best of friends. She said that on Sunday Charles Eard was over at the Henry home and he and Mr. Henry were talking. She also said that Mr. Eard and Mr. Henry had gone to Ladies' Aid Society meetings and she had seen them there together.

Insane Hospital Record Excluded.
Dr. Edward A. Foley was next called to the stand and said that he had been a physician at Jacksonville state hospital for two years and seven months. He was questioned by W. N. Hairgrove, and said the book he had with him was a record of occurrences at the hospital. He then read from pages 334 and 598 of this book, indicating that Nannie Barber, an aunt of the defendant, was not at the institution from 1878 until 1881 and died there. Counsel for the state objected to this evidence as not properly identified, and the court ruled that the objection was not admissible. He said that he remembered a supreme court decision wherein the superintendent of an insane hospital had attempted to prove facts by records of the institution and that the supreme court had held the evidence was not proper. The judge said that there were better ways for the defense to establish the facts which they were trying to get at. Dr. Foley was then excused.

The next witness was James L. Montgomery, who is a carpenter, and he met John Henry Jan. 27 in front of Brady Bros. store and had a conversation with him. The witness testified that Henry was sober and that he had the appearance of having been sick. The cross examination was simply to bring out the fact that Mrs. W. T. Henry is a sister of the witness.

H. R. Hart, deputy county clerk, was placed upon the stand and examined by Mr. Wilson. He produced records from the county clerk's office which were identified and read by Mr. Wilson. This record showed that Mrs. Nannie Barber was sent to the hospital on July 16, 1878. That her age was 26; that she was not an epileptic and that her insanity followed a sickness of three weeks puerperal fever. The jury which committed the patient was composed of Dr. G. W. Miller, W. D. Humphrey, David Swales, W. C. Wright, Byron Gray and J. M. Swales. The record also stated that the patient had a homicidal mania. The death register showed that Mrs. Barber died August 17, 1881, and the cause was given at exhaustion from chronic mania.

Defendant's Son Testified.

George Raymond Henry then took the stand. The witness said he was 18 years old and when asked about his father's condition prior to Jan. 27, said that during the few months previous to that date his father had lost flesh and that he was troubled with sleeplessness. He said that his father some times got from his bed and slept on the floor, or went out in the yard to sleep; that his father had had headaches, which occurred once or twice a week on an average and that during a year prior to Jan. 27, that when seated his father frequently held his head in his hands. He testified that his father worked regularly on the farm. He said that his disposition was kindly, but questions referring to attitude to the family were stricken out. He was asked if his father called upon him to calculate sums and this answer, which was in the affirmative, was stricken out. He testified that his father's memory as to facts had not been so good during the year mentioned as it had formerly been. Questioned as to his father's acts on Jan. 27, he said that his father sat in a chair behind the base burner in the sitting room during the time the family were eating supper. He said that his father held his head in his hands and occasionally ran his fingers through his hair. That his father was still in his chair when he went out to eat supper. Further the witness testified that he saw his father in Woodson about 5 o'clock and that his father started to climb into the wagon to ride home with him, when the witness reminded him that he had ridden from home on a pony. Under cross examination the witness stated that after the conversation with his father at Woodson that his father, riding the pony, passed him during the journey home. He said that his father helped him and his two brothers with certain chores about the barn and they all went to the house together, or about the same time; that while in the house his father sat in his chair behind base burner and that he did not notice anything further about the house. After supper the witness went to the barn and saddled two ponies and returned to the house and said that he did not see his father at that time.

Told of Purchases Made By Henry.
H. M. Andre answered questions asked by W. N. Hairgrove. He testified to the fact that John Henry had been to the Andre & Andre store on Jan. 27 and had purchased a carpet sweeper and bedroom set and that he had given a check signed by Mr. Megginson in payment and had received money as change. The witness said that Mr. Henry seemed to be in a normal condition at that time so far as he knew. On cross examination Mr. Miller asked if Henry's appearance was the same as that of a man in ordinary condition and the answer was in the affirmative.

Jesse Henry was again placed on the stand and asked with reference to the death of his cousin, Ed Henry, who it was understood died at a sanitarium. On objection of counsel for the state the witness was not allowed to testify, the court stating that he had already ruled that the insanity of collateral relatives could not be taken into consideration.

Dr. E. L. Crouch was next called to the stand and he was superintendent at Maplewood sanitarium in 1911 and was asked as to Edward Henry, but he was not allowed to proceed further, in accordance with the ruling of the court.

Mrs. T. N. Whitlock and Mrs. Ida Megginson, who testified Thursday, were again called and gave evidence that they were both present at the Henry home on the night of Jan. 24 when an oyster supper was served there and they testified to the friendly relationship which was then evident between Charles Eard and John Henry. They were not cross examined by the state.

There was a recess of 15 minutes at his point while the court waited for the arrival of Dr. A. H. Dollear. He took the stand at 11:30 and was examined by E. E. Hairgrove. The witness said that he had graduated from St. Louis university and that he had taken post graduate work and had specialized on neurology, which he defined as recurring to disease of the nervous system. He said he had experience in practice at the Norbury sanitarium, at the Watertown state hospital, the Psychopathic hospital at Kankakee, and also post graduate work at Rush college. The witness explained that the Psychopathic institute is a department maintained by the state for a study of the causes leading to insanity and for a study as to methods of treatment. He said it was a research department and had an educational feature, as physicians from the state insane hospitals went there for study. Asked as to how many cases he had observed or come in contact with, the witness said that he had seen or observed in a general way about 5,000 cases; that he had observed and treated for periods of three to six months about 2,500 patients.

He said that he knew the defendant, John Henry, and that he saw him first at the county jail Feb. 12, 1914. He said that he had been asked to visit the defendant, had examined him and prescribed for him; that he made a complete physical examination and thorough laboratory tests and this test was made by an examination of the blood and of the cerebro-spinal fluid.

Continuing, he said: "I found from these things a man below normal in nutrition, with some evidence of nervousness, such as tremor, and other evidence of increase reflexes." Purpose of Examination Questioned.
At this point in the examination counsel for the state objected on the grounds that it had not been shown as to whether the physician went to the jail simply to prescribe and treat him or whether he went with the expectation to be called to testify at some later time. The witness said that he went to the jail to treat Henry for his physical ailments and also to get the necessary data to provide Dr. Norbury with information as to laboratory findings.

As it had not been brought out definitely as to whether or not the physician went with the expectation of being called as a witness, the court then asked Dr. Dollear on this point and the reply was such as to indicate that the witness had in mind that in all probability he might be called upon to give testimony in the case.

Returning again to the condition of the defendant the doctor said that on his visit to the jail he found a man whose nutrition was below normal. The color and complexion indicated slight degree of anaemia. The heart action was not normal, tremor or moderate degree. The pupillary reflection of the eye also was not normal. Examination of the cerebro spinal fluid used for laboratory tests is secured by inserting a needle into the spinal membrane. The doctor said that he gave the proper medicine and treatment and that the treatment had continued from Feb. 12 until the present time. He said that at first he saw the patient once in two or three days and afterwards his visits were less frequent and he had probably seen him 12 times. The witness was asked as to what statements Henry had made as to his previous condition, but on objection of the state the witness was not allowed to answer. Questioned as to observation of Henry's mental condition, the doctor said: "I found the stream of thought coherent and relative. His ability for mental work not of the average. This was especially true with reference to sustained mental efforts. His sense of time and place were good. There was a lessened emotional reaction. He had no insight into what had gone before. (This latter statement of the witness was ruled out after objection by the state.) Asked if the history of the defendant prior to the examination would show sleeplessness and nervousness, if these facts would shed any light on the condition at the time of the examination, the witness said, "I think so."

Explained Blood Pressure.
Asked if it could be shown that Henry was troubled by headaches and insomnia for a period of months prior to Jan. 27, if these facts might throw any light on his condition at the time of examination, the witness said that he thought so and that such facts might strengthen the conclusion of the examination. He said that he had learned prior to the examination that it was alleged that the defendant had been subject to sleeplessness. The witness explained that by blood pressure was meant the degree of force necessary to carry the stream of blood over and through the obstructions to the flow of the blood. He said that the test made was with a machine whereby

GEN. CARANZA'S NOTE INTERRUPTS MEDIATION

IS SURPRISED THAT NEGOTIATIONS CONTINUE WITHOUT REPRESENTATIVE

Envoys Admit Carranza Emissary Only After Conference With American Delegates.—Contents of Note Kept Secret.—Whether Answer Will Be Made Is Not Known Outside Tribunal.

NIAGARA FALLS, May 29.—Consideration of an agreement between the Huerta government and the United States was temporarily interrupted today when Juan F. Urquidí, a representative of General Carranza laid before the South American envoys a note expressing surprise that the mediation negotiations were continuing with the constitutionalists unrepresented.

After a long debate the mediators decided not to permit Urquidí to present the communication from his chief. Then, after a conference with the American delegates the mediators admitted the Carranza emissary.

Urquidí remained with the mediators only a few minutes. He left the note and expressed the appreciation of his superiors that so active an interest had been taken by the three diplomats in averting a war. Urquidí was asked not to disclose the contents of the note.

Whether answer will be made to General Carranza or his representative in Washington is not known outside of the diplomatic tribunal. The mediators refused to answer any questions on the subject. Some of the attaches however, reiterated that the proceedings could be reopened with a constitutionalist present only if General Carranza agreed to a suspension of hostilities as originally demanded by the South American envoys.

The document was signed by Rafael Zubaran, minister of interior in the constitutionalist cabinet, who is now in Washington. It was written, however, on explicit instructions from General Carranza. The arrival of the Carranza emissary was regarded with satisfaction by the American delegates. They are understood to be anxious that negotiations be re-opened to admit Carranza delegates to the mediation conference. Their position is that it would be better to have all elements agree on the protocol now rather than to adopt the present temporary plan and be forced to deal with Carranza later.

Cabinet Discusses Mediation.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—Mexican mediation was a subject of discussion at the cabinet meeting today and the administration took a positive position that the communication forwarded to the mediators at Niagara Falls by General Carranza, chief of the constitutionalist forces should be received.

President Wilson announced to the cabinet that Gen. Carranza had addressed a note to the mediation conference seeking representation upon terms that have not been made public. Details of the Carranza message were not discussed by the cabinet but it later was declared that the administration took the view that the constitutionalist chief should not be ignored.

It was announced during the day that Senor Blanquet, minister of war in the Huerta cabinet, at the request of the Brazilian minister, had given his promise to take immediate steps to secure information regarding the case of Private Parks and Garcia Muro, the Filipino servant of Capt. Rice, who disappeared outside the lines at Vera Cruz.

Sick Sailors Improve.
Washington, May 29.—Sick and wounded sailors and marines of the American fleet at Vera Cruz, who were taken to the New York naval hospital by the Solace, show general improvement. Surgeon General Braisted announced tonight, fifty-five sick and wounded from all causes are under treatment. Of the 28 wounded, several suffered serious injuries, some with internal complications, but the reports indicate the patients uniformly are doing well.

To Ask Release of Iron Workers.
Washington, May 29.—Representative Sabbath made an appointment with President Wilson today for next Monday when with a number of labor leaders he will present a petition for the release of Frank J. Ryan, president of the International Structural Iron Workers, and the other labor leaders convicted in the dynamite conspiracy. The delegation will present a petition bearing the names of more than 1,000,000 union workers.

ILLINOIS REPUBLICANS MEET IN BLOOMINGTON

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF FIRST ILLINOIS G. O. P. CONVENTION

Three Former Governors Are Among Those at Table—Wickersham Criticizes Democratic Policy in Mexico and Its Abandonment of Non-partisan Civil Service.

Bloomington, Ills., May 29.—Republicans from all parts of Illinois joined with Republicans of the seventeenth congressional district tonight in celebrating the 58th anniversary of the first Republican state convention held in Illinois. That convention was held in this city, and it was the scene of the delivery of the celebrated "lost speech" of Abraham Lincoln. Delegates from the various counties of the district came in this afternoon, and paraded through the business district and around the building which contained the mayor's hall, in which the convention of May 29, 1856, was held.

Among those at the speakers' table at the banquet were Former Govs. J. W. Fifer, Richard Yates and Charles S. Deneen. Former Senator Hopkins, former Attorney General George Wickersham, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, John Maynard Harlan of Chicago, and Hon. Lafayette Funk of McLean county.

Mr. Wickersham, after reviewing the birth of the Republican party, told of its accomplishments in constructive legislation and its demonstration of the ability of the Sherman antitrust law to successfully handle the trust problem of the country. He then took up the policy pursued by the present Democratic administration.

Mr. Wickersham criticized the Democratic policy in Mexico, for its abandonment of a non-partisan civil service, and called attention to the attempts of President Wilson to dictate to congress and to Mexico.

In closing, he said: "So let us on this day and at this place of halcyon memories, renew our pledge of devotion to the party of order and progress—the party of capacity and constructive statesmanship. Let us here highly resolve that it shall not have lived in vain and that the destinies of this country, this land of progress and order and reason shall once more be entrusted and consecrated with his blood."

Former Senator Nagel spoke briefly.

TWO BUY FLOWERS FOR DEAD BROTHER; ARE ELECTROCUTED

CHICAGO, May 29.—Hugh and August C. Becker, brothers, were electrocuted tonight as they stepped from a florist's store where they had purchased flowers for the funeral of their younger brother, Andrew, who was killed in a motorcycle collision. The brothers emerged from the store with their arms filled with wreaths and stepped to the edge of the walk. An electric light wire fell and curled about the neck of August. He was enveloped in flame and died instantly. His brother, Hugh, grasped the wire to uncoil it and met a similar fate. Andrew Becker was injured Monday night when his motorcycle and another machine which he was racing with collided with a wagon. Two persons on the other machine were killed. Andrew died today.

TRAIN STRIKES AUTO, KILLING ONE CHILD AND INJURING TWO

WATERLOO, Iowa, May 29.—Esther Hubberts, aged eight, was killed and two of her sisters, Angelina and Edith, aged 12 and 14, respectively, were severely injured at five o'clock this afternoon, when an Illinois Central passenger train crashed into an automobile loaded with five children and driven by Herman Hibbins, a thirteen year old boy.

The children were hurried to Parkersburg, and the injured ones taken to a hospital, where it is believed Edith will recover.

Levies Fine on German Steamer.

Vera Cruz, May 29.—Captain Stiller, collector of the port, has levied a fine of 180,000 pesos on the German Steamer Bavaria for having entered the port without a manifest and for having landed at Puerto Mexico a cargo of ammunition which was consigned to Vera Cruz. The imposition of the fine is an effort to force the Mexican navigation laws and the ship master has sent a cablegram to the Hamburg-American office in Germany for instructions. The Bavaria is being denied clearance from Vera Cruz until some understanding has been reached.

Severe Alaskan Earthquake.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 29.—The severest earthquake since that of June, 1912, when the sleeping volcano Katmai broke its bonds and scattered ashes over an immense area was felt here at 6:03 this morning, accompanied by a rumbling of the earth. The shock today was the fifth in forty-eight hours.

EMPRESS OF IRELAND'S DEAD MAY NUMBER 934

ONLY 433 OF THE 1,376 PERSONS ON BOARD THE ILL-FATED LINER KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN SAVED

Collier Storstad Crashes Bow on Into the Big Canadian Ship, Ripping Her Side Open Half Her Length—Inrush of Waters Was So Great that Steamship Goes Down Before Rescue Boats Reach the Scene—Hundreds of Those on Board Probably Never Reached Deck—Survivors Tell of Disaster.

RIMOUSKI, Que., May 29.—Sinking in 89 feet of water within fifteen minutes after being rammed amidship in the upper reaches of the St. Lawrence river early today, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland carried down with her more than 900 of her passengers and crew. Of the 1,367 persons on board the liner only 433 are known to have been saved, making the probable death list 934.

Looming up through the river mist was the Empress of Ireland, was lying to, waiting for the fog to lift today or to break, the Danish Collier Storstad crashed bow on into the side of the big Canadian liner, striking her about midway of her length and ripping her side open clear to the stern.

Is Disaster of the River.
The crash occurred not far from the shore off Fathers Point, 15 miles from Quebec, which the Empress of Ireland left yesterday afternoon bound for Liverpool, and ten miles from this point on the St. Lawrence. In reality, therefore, although the liner was heading for the sea, the disaster was not one of the ocean, but of the river. Unlike the Titanic's victims, the Empress of Ireland's lost their lives within sight of shore—in landlocked waters.

Immediately the ship's crew recovered from the shock of the collision and it was seen that the liner had received a vital blow, a wireless "S. O. S." call was sounded.

The hurried appeal was picked up by the Government Mail Tender Lady Evelyn here and the Government Pilot Boat Eureka at Fathers Point and both set out at once for the rescue. So deep was the hurt of the Empress, however, and so fast the inrush of waters that long before either of the rescue boats could reach the scene, that liner had gone down. Only floating wreckage and a few lifeboats and rafts from the steamer, buoying up less than a third of those who had set sail on her, were to be found.

The others had sunk with the liner or had been crushed to death by the Storstad's impact with her. Water from the sinking liner scantly clad, were freely given such clothing as the town could supply and later those that were able to travel were placed on board a train and started for Quebec, where they arrived tonight.

Sinks in Fourteen Minutes.
Accounts agree that in the brief space of time—not more than fourteen minutes—between the shock of the collision and the sinking of the liner, there was little chance for systematic marshaling of the passengers. Indeed, every one of those on the steamer probably never reached the decks. Few women were among the saved, not more than a dozen, the lists make it appear.

"It all happened so quickly that we did not really know what was going on and nobody had time to cry 'women first,'" one of the passengers told Capt. Bellinger of the rescue boat Eureka.

"The stewards did not have time to rouse the people from their berths," the survivor added. "Those who heard the frenzied calls of the officers for the passengers to hurry on deck lost no time in obeying them, rushing up from their cabins in scanty attire. They piled into the boats, which were rapidly lowered and were rowed away. Many who waited to dress were drowned."

The horror of the interval during which the Empress of Ireland was rapidly filling and the frightened throngs on board her were hurrying to escape before she sank was added to by an explosion which quickly followed the ripping and tearing given the liner by the Storstad's bow.

According to one of the rescued, the explosion probably caused by the water reaching the boilers, bulged the liner's sides and catapulted people from her decks into the sea. The ship's heavy list, as the water pouring in weighed her on the side she was struck, made the work of launching boats increasingly difficult each moment and when she finally took her plunge to the bottom scores still left on her decks were carried down in the vortex, only a few being able to clear her sides and find support on pieces of wreckage.

From all accounts Captain H. G. Kendall of the Empress of Ireland bore himself like a true sailor as long as his ship stood under him. He retained such command of the situation, it appears, that while the Storstad's stem still hung in the gash it had made in the Empress' side, Captain Kendall begged the master of the collier to keep his propellers going so that the hole might remain plugged. The Storstad, however, dropped back and the Empress filled and foundered.

Captain Is Picked Up.
Captain Kendall stood on his bridge as the ship went down. One of the boats from the liner picked him up and he directed its work of saving others until the craft was loaded. The captain was injured in the crash and suffered from exposure but his hurts are not dangerous and his speedy recovery is expected.

When day broke this morning the rescue boats had not yet returned from the scene of the wreck. People standing on shore at Father Point scanning the position with telescopes saw the rescue steamers picking up boats in the river and prepared to give help to the survivors. They were sorely in need of aid as most of them had on little clothing and the temperature was almost down to the freezing point.

When they had been given attention and gotten on their way to Quebec the work of recovering bodies was undertaken. The rescue steamers themselves had brought in nearly fifty of these and tonight a total of about 250 bodies had been recovered. One woman and four men still living but unconscious were picked up during the day by the steamers. Few of the bodies had been identified tonight. The wireless is given credit for saving many lives from the sinking liner. Responding promptly to the "S. O. S." call the Eureka was on the spot approximately twenty minutes after the disaster and the Lady Evelyn only a little later.

Is One of Five Big Disasters.

The loss of life on the Empress of Ireland has been equalled or exceeded by only four marine disasters in the last century. Those were the loss of the Rhone, Wyand and other vessels at St. Thomas in the great hurricane of October 29, 1867, when 1,000 persons perished; the burning of the excursion boat General Slocum in the East River New York, on June 15th, 1904, with an approximate loss of 1,000 lives; that most terrible of all marine disasters of modern times, the loss of the Titanic on April 14th, 1912, which sank after collision with an iceberg, 1,490 of her company and the loss of the Kikamaru off the Japanese coast on Sept. 28th, 1912, with a loss of 1,000 lives.

Other disasters that approximated in loss of life the fatality list of the Empress of Ireland were the Princess Alice, sunk in collision in the Thames river on Sept. 3rd, 1878, with a loss of 799; the Ertogru, foundered off the Japanese coast on Sept. 19th, 1890, loss 540; the Utopia sunk off Gibraltar in collision on March 17th, 1891, with a loss of 574; the Norge, stranded off Rockall reef on June 24th, 1894 with a loss of 609; La-Bourgeois, lost in collision in the North Atlantic on July 4th, 1898 with a loss of 571; the Japanese Battleship Mikasa blown up on Sept. 12th, 1905 with a loss of 539.

EXPERT OPINIONS CLASH IN HYPOTHETICAL QUESTIONS PROPOUNDED BY ATTORNEYS IN HENRY TRIAL

The pulse was stopped by means of a collar placed around the arm, the apparatus also indicating by a dial the exact pressure in millimeters. He said the name of this instrument was a sphygmomanometer and that the blood pressure of the defendant was below normal. He said that this might indicate exhaustion or heart weakness. He said that the examination showed the heart beat to be 42, the normal for a man of Henry's age was about 70. He defined anemia to be a decrease in the amount of blood or in the constituents of the blood. He said that the test of the blood was made of a sample from the ear finger; that it was diluted and examination made under the microscope with slides, that the number of blood cells and color comparisons were made. He said from this test he found a diminution of red cells and a slight variation as to white cells.

At this point the examination of the witness was interrupted for the noon recess and the court adjourned until 1:30.

Explains Orientation.

At the opening of the afternoon session Dr. Dollear resumed the stand, when the attorneys for the defense turned the witness over to the prosecution. The cross examination was opened by Attorney Butler who asked the witness to explain to the jury just what he meant by saying that he had found the orientation of the defendant good. Dr. Dollear stated that he meant that at the time of the examination of the defendant he displayed a good sense of recognition of his personality, a knowledge of who and where he was. In answer to a question of the prosecution he further stated that this condition was not necessarily a sign of a strong normal mind. He also stated, upon being questioned that the slow pulse and low blood pressure, found on examination of the defendant, was caused by heart conditions. He explained what was meant by patella reflex, a kick or jerk produced by a blow or sudden strain upon the patellar tendon of the knee, which causes a sudden contraction of the quadriceps muscle.

Dr. Norbury Begins Testimony.

The witness was then excused and Dr. F. P. Norbury was called to the stand and sworn. He stated that he resided in Springfield; graduated from Long Island College Hospital in 1888; did post graduate work in New York and Philadelphia; has lived in Illinois all his life with the exception of the time spent in school; has been chiefly engaged in nervous and mental work; was on the staff of the Jacksonville State Hospital from 1888 to 1892; established an institution of his own, had been superintendent of the Kankakee State Hospital; was alienist for the State Board of Administration and recently took over the institution which he originally established and is now conducting it with Dr. Dollear as his associate.

Attorney E. E. Hairgrove then propounded a hypothetical question, which presented the salient points of the testimony given in the case, reciting the story of the defendant's action, and ending by asking if the witness was of the opinion that such a person was sane or insane. The question took up three typewritten pages and required about ten minutes in the reading. It appears elsewhere in this paper.

Objections To Question.

Before an answer was given the prosecution asked to be allowed to go over the question, to see in just what particulars it was defective, which they thought it was. This was allowed, but before a discussion of the objections the court sent the jurors to the jury room, explaining that he did not want them to hear any discussion. Attorney Miller stated that the prosecution objected generally to the question on the ground that it did not include all of the evidence given thus far in the case, and that the evidence of the people, was omitted. That the question was erroneous in the statement of facts by the omission of very important evidence and the insertion of certain statements which the evidence does not show.

When he read one of the clauses, the attorneys for the defense stated that this particular part of the question was not read and that parts of the question which were enclosed in brackets were omitted. Mr. Miller explained that he misunderstood that and as this part of the query was the ground for most of the objections, the attorneys for the people reconsidered the question. After this Attorney Miller repeated that the attorneys for the people objected on the ground that all of the evidence was not presented and that the closing paragraph was faulty. Judge Layman also stated that the question did not embrace all of the facts relating to the actions of the defendant at the Ezar home and at the boarding house in St. Louis.

The court explained that all of the evidence was not necessary as long as the salient facts were presented and that the prosecution could test the opinion of the witness on cross-examination. The jury was then brought back into the court room and Attorney E. E. Hairgrove read the amended question.

After reading the hypothetical question to Doctor Norbury and receiving the answer that the doctor would judge a person insane whose conduct was as outlined in the question he was further interrogated by E. E. Hairgrove. Dr. Norbury said "I saw Henry at the county jail on February 10, 1914, having come there for the purpose of making examination as to his mental and physical condition. I made the mental examination and a part of the physical examination." The witness then briefly told of his visit to the defendant following the date mentioned. Under cross examination by J. Marshall Miller Dr. Norbury was asked if he had formulated the question which had been asked of him. He replied he had not formulated the question but he had read it. He stated that he had been employed to examine the defendant and to appear as a witness by Messrs. Hairgrove and Wilson and he expected to be paid for his services. He said that he made six or seven visits to the jail and at the first one he probably spent one hour and a half and on the other visits a half hour. He thought that he last seen the defendant the second week in April.

Insanity Types Described.

Mr. Miller pointed to certain sentences in the copy of the hypothetical question and asked under what class of mental diseases would come the person whose conduct was the kind described in the question. Dr. Norbury said that he would class the type of insanity as kraepelin or constitutional inferiority, and in answer to question by counsel said that this type of insanity might be both physical and organic, that constitutional inferiority was always organic. Going further into the definition of the classification of the case of the kind outlined in the question the witness stated that the man belonged to a class of psycho-neurotics and that the form under this class was that in the hypothetical case that the strongest evidences of the type and class of insanity were found in the headaches, the sleeplessness, and in the "fuge" which occurred subsequent to the homicide and up to the return afterward.

The attorney asked if there were not a good many people afflicted with ambulatory automatism during the heated term last summer when it was so difficult to sleep at night. The witness laughingly replied that might be true. The witness was asked what was meant or included within the term orientation but counsel for the defense objected to the question as not material. Mr. Butler of the prosecution caused some merriment in the court room by saying that they had a right to find out whether he could answer such questions as he qualified as an expert. Continuing further Mr. Miller asked:

Question. Is not the mental state which results from constitutional inferiority a fixed matter? And is not the person so afflicted more apt to be attacked at the time of old age or senility?

Answer. No, it is variable and not incident to any special time of life.

Question. In the question suggesting that an aunt of the man concerned died insane three years after an attack of puerperal fever? Would you not consider this that this was a case of infection rather than hereditary insanity?

Answer. If the insanity continued for a period of three years I should think that it was an indication of hereditary taint rather than infection. If the result of infection the patient would be likely to recover within a few weeks after the malady was manifest.

Question. What do you mean by the term fuge.

Explained Meaning of Fuge.

Answer. It is a period when a man disassociates himself from himself and his environments. Sometimes it may last three or four days and sometimes longer. During such a period the person does not know his own name and is dissociated with his own identity in other regards. It is a form of somnambulism and in this state a person can do many things of which he is not capable of doing in his normal state of mind and can often accomplish great feats of physical endurance. The person in such a state can reason with reference to certain things. The witness in answer to further questions stated that he has specialized on mental and nervous diseases for 26 years and he had served as an expert in a good many criminal cases and had appeared possibly more for the prosecution than for the defense. He was asked if he had not appeared as an expert in a case in Morgan county some years ago and replied that he had but the question was stricken out when he was asked to tell the name of the case.

The next witness was Dr. A. H. Dollear and the hypothetical question was read to him. The witness said in reply to questions that he was a partner of Dr. Norbury, that they had talked about the case, that he had read the question and that probably some of the information which he had provided was formulated into this question. He stated that he expected to be paid for his services. Asked if the facts in the question were otherwise than those outlined, if his opinion might be different, he answered "Yes". At this point the defense rested their case.

Following some little delay the prosecution began the introduction of testimony in rebuttal to evidence of the defense. L. E. Wyatt whose home is in Virginia was questioned by T. F. Smith and said he was an insurance agent and rode on the train from Jacksonville to Woodson with defendant on Jan. 27, he had some conversation with Henry on the train and he walked from the depot at Woodson across the street. He said that he did not observe anything peculiar in the actions at the time. He was not cross examined.

Dr. G. W. Miller examined by Mr. Smith said he knew the defendant a great many years, had met him at church and on the street at various times, but did not recall having seen him for several months to talk to prior to January 27. He said he always considered him a sane man.

J. F. Self was next called and in answer to inquiries said he met the defendant in the office of the sheriff some time during the month of December and conversed with him for a half hour. He said he considered the defendant sane at that time. Henry Reese who was called to the stand and testified along the same line. He had known the defendant for years and had had always considered him sane.

More interest attached to the testimony of Richard Megginson, a relative of the defendant by marriage who said he was at the Henry home the night the defendant returned from his alleged trip to St. Louis.

Question—Did you hear any inquiry at that time of John Henry as to what disposition he had made of his shot gun?

Answer.—Yes, his brother Jesse asked him with reference to the gun. Counsel for the defense objected to the answering of the question claiming that it did not tend to throw light upon the questions they had asked. Judge Layman argued that the defendant testified that after shutting the kitchen door to keep out the noise of the children that he had a lapse of memory, and did not come to himself until several days later and the evidence was intended to show that the defendant had made statements indicating that he did have recollection of some matters after the shutting of the door and prior to his return home. The court ruled that the question was allowable and Mr. Megginson answered that the defendant, when asked about the gun said that he did not know what he had done with it but he thought he placed it in a pile of ties somewhere between Woodson and Franklin.

Question.—At that time did any one of the family there make any inquiry about what train the defendant may have boarded that night of the tragedy?

Answer.—I do not remember for certain whether or not this question was asked.

Question.—Did John Henry make any statement that night with reference to the train on which he left after the homicide?

Answer.—I do not remember his making any statement in this regard.

The last witness of the afternoon session was Lucille Henry, the 13 year old daughter of the defendant. Miss Henry on the stand evidenced unusual self-control for a girl of her years and answered the questions clearly.

Question.—Did you hear a gun shot on the night of January 27?

Answer.—Yes, I heard it.

Question.—Did you see your father at home after that gun shot?

Answer.—Yes, he came in at the kitchen door.

What were you doing at that time and who else was in the room?

Answer.—I was rocking the baby and my sister Emma had the receiver of the telephone in her hand listening.

Question.—What did your father do or say?

Answer.—He went to the dresser, opened a drawer and took out blank paper and some shells and put them in his pocket. He kissed all five of us children who were in the room and told us to be good children. Counsel for the defense asked as to the appearance at the time indicated of the defendant, and the witness said that her father was very white, and his eyes were shiny.

After a conference of attorneys it was announced by the court that an adjournment would be taken until 8 o'clock when the prosecution would continue the evidence in rebuttal. The court adjourned until the hour mentioned.

Dr. Crouch on Stand.

The night session began at 8 o'clock. Dr. E. L. Crouch, was placed on the stand by the prosecution and testified that he was a graduate of the medical department of Washington University in St. Louis and that he took post graduate work in Washington and New York. He told, also of his special work on mental disorders extending over a long period of years. Mr. Miller then propounded the hypothetical question printed elsewhere.

Objections were made by the defense to the question. It was revised somewhat and was then re-read. Dr. Crouch answered that he would consider a man sane whose actions were like those of a person assumed in the hypothetical question.

W. N. Hairgrove asked if the witness in giving this opinion gave consideration to the portion of the statement that the person alleged drank whisky on the day of the crime mentioned. The witness said that he did. Prior to this the question was several times asked in a form to which the attorneys for the prosecution took exception.

Attorneys for the defense asked if the witness was to be paid and replied that he expected to be, that he had been called into the case by Judge Layman.

Dr. Edward Bowe took the stand and in answer to questions stated that he was a graduate of Rush medical college, that he served as an interne there, that he had been in general practice about 18 years and was associated with Dr. Norbury nine years. The hypothetical question was read to him and the answer given was "sane". In reply to counsel he said he would probably be paid for any service rendered the prosecution.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY ENJOYS ALL DAY PICNIC

Were Guests Friday of Prof. and Mrs. T. P. Carter Where Happy Time Was Spent—Expression of Appreciation for Principal C. E. Collins.

At the invitation of Prof. and Mrs. T. P. Carter, the high school faculty spent the day at their home there from ten to ten.

The teachers began to arrive about ten, and by noon were all there at which time they sat down to a splendidly prepared dinner. After fully satisfying the inner man and putting away all the dishes, they proceeded to their work of recording the monthly and semester grades of all the students of the high school.

At about four thirty, their work having been completed, they chose sides and proceeded to play a very interesting game of base ball, in which the ladies especially distinguished themselves in batting.

At six-thirty the faculty again repaired to the dining room and partook of the refreshments that had been so bountifully prepared by their hosts. When the meal was completed, Mr. Carter arose and read the following expression of appreciation.

An Appreciation.

We, the members of the faculty of the Jacksonville High School, desire to take this opportunity to express our appreciation of the character and splendid work of Principal Charles E. Collins during the school year which has just closed.

Our associations with him have been cordial and mutually helpful; in his dealings with us he has been ever ready to advise or listen to suggestions, and never have we been made to feel our subordinate positions.

We feel that the school room work has been advanced in standard and quality under his wise guidance, while one of the greatest favored steps taken this year has been the giving student body opportunity, under supervision, to operate all school activities in which they have been interested.

We are convinced that next year, with plans now well in hand, we will be awakened to accomplish much more, putting the school on a still higher plane of usefulness.

Mr. Collins in a few words thanked the teachers for their thoughtfulness, manifested by his expression of appreciation. He further stated how he had enjoyed the work, and home he considered himself a greater gainer than they, and how glad he was that they had been able to work the entire year in such harmony.

Miss Baldwin in fitting words thanked Mr. and Mrs. Carter for their hospitality on this and other occasions during the year and wished them many more happy years.

After an evening spent in music, and conversation as to where and how they were going to spend the vacation, the teachers again thanked their hosts for the pleasant day and departed to their homes.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND MYERS BROS. SALE.

Judging by the number in attendance Friday at the big Myers Bros. sale, today bids far to be a real breaker. It is seldom that values so low for goods of such high quality are made available and the suit bargains in goods made by a house of long standing and repute, which are now being offered should be carefully investigated. Especially attractive are the summer suit bargains which offer an exceptional opportunity for these warm summer days.

Presbyterians Adjourn.

Chicago, May 29.—The 126th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America concluded its business and adjourned today. Church leaders declared it was the most harmonious assembly of the denomination in a decade and that the year just ended had been the most successful in the history of the denomination.

Six Miners Are Killed.

Tamaqua, Pa., May 29.—Six miners were killed and two seriously injured at the Mayrd Colliery late today when a cage in which they were riding to the surface turned turtle after it had gone forty feet into the air past the landing where the men were supposed to embark. The dead were foreign born workmen.

One Killed in Storm.

DANVILLE, ILL., May 29.—William Arnold, a teamster, was killed and two others severely injured today when a sudden wind storm demolished a barn southeast of this city where they had taken refuge.

second-class and 191 third-class passengers, and 234 of the crew. Thirty-seven survivors were left at Rimouski.

A full equipment of ambulances supplied by this city, by the town of Levis on the opposite side of the river and the army medical corps was awaiting at Levis when the special survivor's train arrived and the passengers were immediately disembarked and transferred to the ferry steamer which had been waiting to facilitate the transfer to the Quebec. It was a pitiful sight when the ferry steamer Polarix docked on the Quebec side tonight and the 396 men and women saved from the Empress of Ireland trooped falteringly down the gangway. The faces of all plainly registered the frightful experience they had gone through. Few of the survivors possessed a complete outfit of clothes, the majority wearing only shirts, trousers and boots.

Heads were bared as the injured were brought ashore supported by friends and officials of the company. The second and third class passengers and the crew were immediately made comfortable on the Allan Liner Alsatian, which was lying in an adjoining berth. The first class and injured passengers were transferred to the Chateau Frontenac. A staff of doctors and nurses took charge of the injured.

Among the twenty five survivors of the first cabin there were eight women and one child and strangely, among the twenty nine rescued from the second cabin there were also eight women and one child. Of the 11 persons saved from the steerage four were women.

Gives Graphic Description.

Among the fifty passengers left in Rimouski were a number who were so ill or so severely injured that they had to be taken to the hospital. A graphic description of the scene after the collision was given by Dr. James L. Grant, ship's surgeon.

"I was in my cabin," he said, "when the boat listed so badly that I tumbled out of my berth and then rolled under it. I tried to turn on the light but there was no power. When finally I got out and reached the passageway it was so steep, due to the way the ship was canted that my efforts to climb were made impossible by the carpet which I was clinging to breaking away."

"I then scrambled up and managed to get my head through a port hole but I was unable to get my shoulders through. At that time the ship was lying almost flat on her starboard side. A passenger was standing on the plated side to the ship and finally managed to pull me through the port whole."

"About a hundred passengers were gathered on the side of the ship at the time, but a moment after I had joined them the vessel took another list and plunged to the bottom. "I swam towards the lights of the Steamer Storstad and when nearly exhausted I was picked up by a lifeboat which picked up a load of survivors and then took all to the Storstad."

Only Two Children Saved.

Only two children are known to have been saved from the wreck. One of these was eight year old Grace Hanagan, daughter of the leader of the Salvation army band. Her father and mother were drowned.

No lifeboat was near when she was thrown from the Empress and she saw a piece of floating wood near and seized it. Later she was pulled into a lifeboat.

Major Attwell of Toronto and his wife were among the saved.

"I got a life belt for my wife," Major Attwell said, "and we jumped into the water together when we saw that the vessel was doomed. We sank three times, being carried under by the suction of the foundering vessel. When we came up the third time I saw a lifeboat near and swam to it pulling my wife after me. Then those in the boat pulled us in and we were saved."

K. A. McIntyre was in the second cabin with most of the other Salvation Army passengers.

"Virtually every leading officer of the Salvation Army in Canada is gone," he said. "Commissioner Rees and his wife and the children went down and only three of this family survive. Out of our salvation party of 150, probably less than twenty were rescued."

Behavior of Crew Good.

"The behavior of the crew was good though it must be said that the men hardly had time to collect themselves or effect rescues in any systematic way. The boat was really sinking before the crew or anybody else realized it or could do anything."

"Those of the crew who got to the deck tried to launch a boat on the upturned side of the vessel but this was impossible because the list was such that the boat could not be put into the water and landed on the side of the vessel."

"The decks were almost perpendicular so that many passengers in order to escape had to slide down from the higher side to the lower or water side."

Three Hundred Bodies in Rimouski

Rimouski, Que., May 29.—About three hundred bodies of dead from the Empress of Ireland lie tonight in the sheds at the wharf here. One of the bodies on the wharf is that of a woman whose arms are clasped tightly about her child. Many of the bodies are torn and bruised.

Captain Hendall was downcast over the disaster to his ship when he was brought ashore here. "I wish I had gone to the bottom with her," he said.

Tells Story of Explosion.

Quebec, May 29.—A story that there was a tremendous explosion on board the Empress of Ireland after she was hit by the Storstad was told tonight by Philip Lawler, a steerage passenger from Brandon, Ont. Lawler was on his way to England with his wife and his son Herbert, aged 15. When the collision came the Em-

RASH ON ARMS ITCHED AND BURNED

Especially at Night. At Times Got No Sleep At All. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

400 South Hermitage Ave., Chicago, Ill.
"I was attacked with a breaking out on the inside of my arms. It was a small rash or pimples and it itched and burned, especially at night, so that before I knew it I had made myself sore. I had to wear the finest kind of cotton underwear, no woolen at all, because the least thing irritated it and made it much worse. The rash itched and smarted until at times I got no sleep at all."
"I had this trouble and took treatments for about one year, but they only gave me relief while taking them. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I got relief right away. I made a good strong lather of Cuticura Soap and washed myself every night and morning, drying myself with a good soft towel, and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In three months I was a well man again." (Signed) H. W. Foley, Nov. 5, 1912.

Hypothetical Question Propounded to Drs. Norbury and Dollear When They Declared Person In Assumed Case Insane

Naturally a great deal of interest attached to the hypothetical question which was propounded to Dr. F. P. Norbury and Dr. A. H. Dollear as experts for the defense. The facts set forth in this question are alleged to be facts coincident with those of the Henry case.

Both of these physicians testify that the person who met the conditions as outlined in the question was in their opinion insane. This was equivalent to giving it as their opinion that John Henry at the time he killed Chas. Ezard for several days thereafter was an insane man. The classification given this type of insanity is constitutional inferiority, and the state of mind in which Henry is alleged to have been when he committed the crime and during subsequent days until he started home from St. Louis, is termed "fuge." This state is classed as belonging to psycho-neurotics and the particular form is ambulatory automatism. This is a form of polydeic somnambulism. This then was the particular type and class of insanity under which the witnesses believe John Henry was suffering at the time he shot and killed Chas. Ezard. It is stated that there are a vast number of cases of this kind on record although it is not characteristic of each case that while in the state of fuge that the person has committed special acts of violence. The hypothetical question propounded to Dr. Norbury and Dr. Dollear was in the following language:

If a man of about the age of forty-two years, who had lived from his birth in the vicinity of Woodson, Illinois, had a wife and seven children, who had been for many years a tenant on his father's farm, and who had lived within almost a stone's throw of his father's house; a member of a family consisting of three brothers and three sisters; who had throughout his entire life been a hard worker; who was of a quiet, retiring disposition; was a member of a church and attended the same more or less regularly; who with his wife occasionally attended the Ladies Aid Society of the church; who farmed 240 acres of land and had a half interest in a cattle business in partnership with a brother, and fed and cared for many head of cattle per year on a farm near that on which he lived; who in the summer of 1913 became greatly distressed and worried over his crops and the difficulties in caring for the cattle; who had for a considerable length of time been sleepless and affected with what is commonly designated as "insomnia" and while in said condition of sleeplessness would get up in the night-time and go out to look over his farm and cattle; who was on friendly terms with his neighbors and whose general reputation for peace and good order was good in his community; whose aunt died in the insane hospital and whose uncle was at times insane; who had himself been treated for a nervous trouble and who had in the month of December, 1913, by striking his head on a beam or rafter of a building, been greatly jarred and suffered great pain in his head and was staggered thereby; who prior thereto suffered from headaches and who since that time suffered severe pains in the head; who in the summer and fall of 1913 became forgetful; who at about noon of January 27, 1914 had taken a small drink of whiskey, which said whiskey did not seem to affect his actions in any degree; that said whiskey was drunk at about noon on said day, and that he went from Woodson, the place where he took said drink, a short time thereafter, to Jacksonville and attended to several matters of business with business acquaintances and friends and while transacting said business he did not at any time during the afternoon, either at Woodson or at Jacksonville, show any signs of intoxication or other mental disturbances; who thereafter returned to Woodson at about 4:30 p. m. and again transacted business at an elevator office in Woodson, talking intelligently with the clerk and other employees at said elevator for a period of some 20 to 40 minutes; who thereafter talked with his father, showing no signs of intoxication at any time; who started to ride home with his son, and then went back and got the pony; who then went home and on his way home passed his son who was riding in a wagon without speaking to said son; who upon arriving at his home entered the house without noticing or speaking to any of the members of his family, then sat down in a rocking chair beside a base burner stove, putting his hands to his head and air; who refused to go to his supper when requested so to do by members of his family; that his eyes had a glaring and staring appearance and his face was pale or blanched; was disturbed by the noise made by his family in the kitchen or dining room of his house and arose to close the door of the room in which he was sitting; that he testifies that he does not recall what occurred thereafter; that he appeared a few minutes thereafter at the home of a neighbor with whom he was on the most intimate terms, where upon arriving at the said home he found his wife seated at the dining table; commanded her to get up and go home with him or that he would shoot her, using profane language in his command, and upbraided her for attending the Ladies Aid society and accused her of neglecting her family, and when upon being requested not to shoot his wife by his friend, said that he would shoot the friend if he did not keep seated; that thereupon a scuffle was had by the said party and his wife, and that as a result of the scuffle, and by reason of scuffling, and the fact that he had a loaded gun in his hands, said gun was discharged twice, and that one of the loads entered the body of his lifelong friend, and that said friend was killed thereby, and that after the killing of said friend, and being charged at that time for the killing of him, said that he did not care if he had killed him; that he thereafter fled from the scene of said killing and was not seen for a period of about four days, when he returned to his home very much emaciated, covered with dirt and grime; and that party has testified that he had been suffering from a severe headache on the 27th day of January, and that he had no recollection of anything that occurred on that day after he got up to shut the door of the room in which he was sitting between 6:00 and 7:00 o'clock p. m., until he came to himself at St. Louis, Missouri in a cheap rooming house, whose location prior to that time had been unknown to him, and in a part of town with which he was unfamiliar; was seen in said lodging house by the porter and clerk of said lodging house from the morning of Wednesday the 28th of January to Friday, January 30th; that he looked pale and sick at that time, his face having a blank expression and he seemed not to understand what was said to him; that he went to bed without removing his apparel, remained in bed at said lodging house from Wednesday morning to Friday morning continuously; that he did not at the time he came to himself know where he was; that he picked up a newspaper and for the first time was confronted with the fact that he was charged with the killing of his friend, and that immediately thereafter he returned to his home and surrendered himself to the sheriff of his county who when examined by a physician on or about the 10th day of February, 1914, was found to have a pulse of 42 to 48 beats a minute, with low blood pressure; who had a noticeable tremor of the extended fingers, whose eyes had a sluggish pupillary reaction to light; whose cerebro-spinal fluid examination revealed the presence of globulin.

Now, Doctor, taking this recitation of facts as true and as the history of a person, what would you say was his condition at the time of the homicide as to his being sane or insane?

Hypothetical Question Propounded to Drs. Crouch and Bowe When They Declared Person In Assumed Case Sane

Interest equal to that in the first hypothetical question attached to the second, which was propounded by J. Marshall Miller of the prosecution to Dr. E. L. Crouch and Dr. Edward Bowe. The facts narrated in this assumed case were intended to be similar to those which the prosecution maintain are true in the Henry case. Dr. Crouch and Dr. Bowe expressed the opinion that the person described in the hypothetical question presented to them was sane when committed to the alleged crime.

Assume a man forty-two years old, who prior to January 27, 1914 was apparently normal and sane, and who on that day had a drink of whiskey at about noon and again a drink of whiskey later from a doctor friend, and at night at or about seven o'clock came to the kitchen door of the neighbor's house; and threw open the door, then holding a double barreled shotgun in his hands, looked across the kitchen at his wife who was seated at the supper table with the family, and said to his wife, "I will shoot you, I will shoot you," whereupon the man of that household started to arise, and said "Don't shoot me for the sake of my wife and baby," and the reply was made to him, "Sit down or I will shoot you. You are the one who has been up-holding her." meaning the wife of the man with the gun, and he then said to his wife, "You have been going to the Ladies Aid Society and the like to the neglect of your family." She replied to her husband with the gun in hand, "Haven't you plenty to eat and to wear. Are you not ashamed of yourself making this trouble here?" and he replied "You have treated me like a dog. I want you to go home to your children," who replied to him, "I am not going home until you come in and sit down." "You are drunk and I am not afraid of your gun" and thereupon the said gun was discharged across the supper table and the charge therefrom lodged in the opposite wall of the kitchen and blew out the lighted lamp upon the supper table. Then the wife of the armed man and he engaged in a scuffle for the possession of the gun, upon the porch just outside the kitchen door, the wife calling to the man seated at the table to come and help her get the gun away from her husband, and immediately a shot was fired, striking the man of the family in his back, and he fell dead at the threshold of his kitchen door. The man who did the shooting had heretofore made a threat that he would kill anyone who went to the telephone, and after the killing, drove the wife of the deceased man forcibly from the telephone, saying, "Don't you ring anyone." "We don't want anyone here," and she made reply, "You have killed my husband," and the man who did the shooting said, "I don't care if I have," and also inquired, "Where is Lou?" meaning his wife, and made search through the house for her, stepping over the dead form of the man whom he had shot, and then left the house and returned to his own home a short distance from the house where the killing occurred, took from a dresser drawer some papers and gun shells and placed them in his pocket and bid his children good-bye, and requested they all be good and went out into the darkness and made his way to the city of St. Louis and entered a lodging house and gave his name as Brown and paid ten cents for his sleeping cot on the fourth floor and remained there for a period of about three days and descended the stairs and tried, on two occasions, to call his brother by telephone in East St. Louis and afterwards wrote him a letter but did not mail the same, and read in a newspaper in said lodging house a full account of the Woodson tragedy in which his own name appeared as the person who did the killing at Woodson, Illinois, and again returned to his cot and slept more came down later after paying for his continued occupancy of the cot, went to a lunch room and got a lunch and coffee to drink and then went to one store and bought a Stetson hat and to another and purchased a shirt and pants and put the same on above his other clothes, walked seven or eight blocks to the office of the interurban station and took passage on an interurban car as far as Venice, Illinois, where he remained until the steam train on the Chicago & Alton railroad came in about five o'clock in the evening and climbed upon the train without a ticket, although he had more than forty dollars ($40.00) in money on his person and rode upon the train without paying, next behind the engine tender, known as the "blind baggage" to the town of Godfrey, where he climbed into the engine cab, a severe storm of rain, snow and sleet falling that night, and rode as far as Murrayville, some three or four miles from his home and gave for a reason for not paying his transportation and riding in that manner in the night and storm that he did not wish to be recognized and arrested. He then walked from Murrayville to his home, in the snow, arriving after ten o'clock that night where he secured food and comforts and told upon inquiry that he seemed to think he had put his gun in a pile of ties; and remained in the company of his family and friends until the next morning.

Now, doctor, assuming the above circumstances and statements to be true, would you say that he was at the time of the homicide a sane or insane man?

PICTURESQUE SUMMER

The Early Toiler
By WALT MASON.

Some fellows arise from their beds in the morning, when darkness is just giving place to dawn, everyone's rights in the neighborhood screaming, they push their old mowers all over the lawn. Their mowers are rusty, and screech like Old Harry, go clinkety clank in a maddening way; the voice of a rusty old mower will carry all over the village at breaking of day. Then neighbors get up and lean out of their windows and shovel language that's addled and sour, and beg in the tongues of the Choctaws and Hindoos, that silence may reign till a civilized hour. In vain is their pleading; the mowers go clinkety, the mowers go clanking their cog-wheels and cams, and many good people are driven to drinking, and finally die of the Jimmie Jams. There should be a jail, such slumber destroyers, a dark, mouldy dungeon, disgusting and stale, and also a cell for the coin hungry lawyers who faint would defend them or see they get bail. But law doesn't cover such grievous offenses, and people must suffer till this life is gone, they still must be driven clean out of their senses, by bores who go mowing an hour before dawn.

Boy or Girl? Great Question!

This brings to many minds an old and tried family remedy—an external application known as "Mother's Friend." During the period of expectancy it is applied to the abdominal muscles and is designed to soothe the intricate network of nerves involved. In this manner it has such a splendid influence as to justify its use in all cases of coming motherhood. It has been generally recommended for years and years and those who have used it speak in highest praise of the immense relief it affords. Particularly do these knowing mothers speak of the absence of morning sickness, absence of strain on the ligaments and freedom from those many other distresses which are usually looked forward to with so much concern.

There is no question but what "Mother's Friend" has a marked tendency to relieve the mind and this of itself in addition to the physical relief has given it a very wide popularity among women. It is absolutely safe to use, renders the skin pliable, is penetrating in its nature and is composed of those embrocations best suited to thoroughly lubricate the nerves, muscles, tendons and ligaments involved.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. The regular price is $1.00 a bottle.

It is prepared only by Bradford Regulator Co., 501 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Avoid the many worthless substitutes. It should be remembered that what is said of "Mother's Friend" is the thought expressed by the thousands of women who have successfully used it and recommended it through two generations.

GEORGE WILTSE, LEARNING TO THROW SPITBALL, SAYS IT IS EASY.

George Wiltse, the famous southpaw flinger of the Giants, is becoming quite an adept at throwing the spitball. Wiltse says that it is no harder on the arm than a curve and is quite simple to acquire. Wiltse already possesses a very sharp breaking drop and, if he adds the splitter to his repertoire, should prove a hard man to beat.

JUDGING PAINTINGS.

Expert Advice on How to Go Through

I should recommend you to go through a picture gallery as one seeking the face of a friend in a crowd and to let yourselves be led on by your sympathies. If you admire the work of a man, find out all you can about him; see his work as much as you can, especially his beginnings.

In our times a distinction is made between painting which is decorative and painting which is pictorial, which is, I think, an unfortunate distinction, and one which should not exist, for all pictures should decorate the walls or places on which they are placed. That this distinction should exist is perhaps our own fault in forgetting as we do sometimes that a picture should be agreeable to the eye in its color and masses—the good old painters never forgot that.

It seems to me that taste in a picture is something like natural good manners in man, not depending on the elements—the clothes—of the picture, but on the temperament it displays and the measure of its harmony with our acknowledged standards. For a man's picture reveals his outlook on the world and is in that sense a part of him. If we choose a person for a friend, we like him, let us say, to be simple and natural, reliable and without swagger. Whether he is rich or poor, grave or gay, does not matter so long as we can depend on him. And it seems to me that a picture to be in good taste must have analogous qualities—that it should, like our ideal friend, be in accord with the best standards. It should be in harmony with the best we know.—From "Royal Academy Lectures on Painting," by George Clausen, R. A., R. W. S.

MIGRATING BIRDS.

Shore Lines and River Valleys Help
Them in Their Flight.

Experiences of aeroplane pilots with air currents have given to a noted English naturalist an explanation for the fact that some birds in making their annual migrations fly along coast lines and along river valleys. Judging from aeroplane experience birds would find it required less effort to fly along such routes. In the daytime water cools the air on most days, and over the water there is a downward current of air, as indicated by the noticeable sinking of aeroplanes and balloons crossing over a pond. At the same time there is more or less of an upward current of air along the shore line.

Upward currents of air greatly help flight, and many kinds of birds are known to take full advantage of them. So the naturalist sees an opportunity for birds to take advantage of upward currents of air in migrating by day if they follow the coast of a sea or the bank of a river. The effect would be most marked on the windward side of the water, so that if the birds do not fly along that side near the water they ought to. Whether at night there is an appreciable upward current of air over water is not so clearly established, but he believes it is likely and so would be of advantage to birds if they wished to use it.

A further explanation of such routes is that the birds might learn them in their migrations, for shore lines are the easiest of all markings on the earth for an aviator to see and follow, while on a still night the waves on the shore can be heard high in the air, marking the shore line.—Saturday Evening Post.

Europe Has Largest Tunnels.

The United States has for so long been pre-eminent in the realm of size that it comes almost as a shock to realize that the largest railway tunnels are on the continent of Europe. Of these the longest is the Simplon, twelve and a quarter miles long, through the Alps. Two others, the St. Gothard and the Lotschberg, are over nine and one-third miles long, and the Mont Cenis is over seven miles long. In all there are fourteen tunnels over four miles long. The longest tunnel in this country is the Hoosac, four and one-third miles long.—American Mechanist.

SOME OFF-SIDE CHUTES.

Ireland and the Irish have been in the limelight with a vengeance the present week. Monday John Redmond and his little band of Nationalists succeeded in forcing the home rule bill to a third reading, repealing the notorious compact of 14 years standing—the infamous history of Pitt and Castlereagh. Tuesday, at Belmont park, John Whelan with his speedy gelding, Buskin, romped home with the great Metropolitan handicap. Wednesday, at Epsom Downs, near London, an American colt owned by Herman B. Duryea and piloted by an Irish-American jockey, McGee, won the classic Derby. Wednesday, at Belmont park, Shannon River, with Allen up, was first in the steeplechase of two and one-half miles. At the same park on the same day Connemara, with McCahey up, won the sixth race with $12 to $1 against its chances in the speculation, and in the same race Miss Cavanagh finished third at $6 to $1 to show. At Louisville on Wednesday, the Irish-American jockeys, Neylon, Keogh and Martin, captured five-sixths of the running events. Thursday at Belmont park, Louisville and Toronto jockeys Ryan, Davies, Wolfe, Martin and Taylor, all Hibernian descent, captured a majority of the events. Altogether this has been a glorious week for the Harps and the Harpists. "Erin go Bragh"—long may "she" flutter.

Ritchie, if press reports are correct, is quite sore about his showing at Milwaukee Tuesday. He has dubbed himself a boob, something close followers of the game always have believed he was. He thinks he could have at least earned a draw had he boxed like a champion should, not carry the fight to White, but allow the latter to do the leading. The detailed account of the battle shows that the Chicago newsboy did that very thing and that throughout the greater part of the journey the champion was satisfied to cling to the ropes. Ritchie is a high priced boob—$10,000, a grouch and a disappointed phiz.

Sioux City has signed a Pueblo Indian pitcher named Clark. In a recent game at Albuquerque, pitching for the government Indian school against the New Mexico State university, he was credited with twenty-one strikeouts. The Indian will join the Hawkeye team next Tuesday, and it is expected that he will add materially to Sioux City's chances in crowding St. Joseph for the lead in the Western League.

Moeridge has at last succeeded in winning a game for Des Moines. Up until Thursday he had five bad starts and each time was compelled to accept an unmerciful drubbing. Thursday he breezed home against Wichita.

Champion Francis Outmet, who failed to qualify last week at Sandwich, near London, for the British amateur golf championship, won the French championship in a romp at Versailles, France, Thursday. Being of French-Canadian extraction, the Boston expert was a pronounced favorite at the La Boule course.

Morris Rath, who was shipped to Kansas City by Callahan because he was shy with the willow, in his present batting form would add considerable strength to the White Sox. During the past two weeks he has been leading the Kaws in the hit column.

Mark Lewis, the all-around sporting promoter of Chicago, is in a precarious condition at his home following a stroke of paralysis. Lewis has many friends throughout this country and in Europe who are hoping for a speedy recovery.

Another pair of the St. Louis Cards got into a wrangle after a game on Wednesday, and it is said mused up one another's frontal pieces much after the finished job White executed for Ritchie. Pitcher Griner and Outfielder Cather were fined $100 each and left behind when the team took the road.

The White Sox won a game yesterday. They were on the road, consequently none of the other seven teams were eligible to wallop them.

Jasper has gone to the relief of Sox gunmen seven times this season and hurried two and three innings without being scored on. Thursday the Yankees counted twice at his expense, once because he failed to cover first base for an easy out and again because with a man on third he turned loose a wild leave.

This is a method for cooling the bath tub with hot water and in the dissolve three pounds of epsom salts. Get into the tub and lie with the body as flat as possible. Keep the hot water faucet open all the time, so that the water never cools. Remain in this bath for fifteen minutes; then take a cold shower or spray.

At first the baths may be enervating. If so, take one every second day. The oftener they are taken the quicker the reduction will be. They are said to be quite harmless, though a bit strenuous at first.

Practically the same method is used for curing a severe cold in the head or chest, except that only two pounds of epsom salts are used, and a very hot drink, preferably a toddy, is drunk before getting into the bath, as it aids in inducing perspiration. After the bath go directly to bed and put on all the covers possible. In two hours the bed will be quite damp from the perspiration, or should be.—New York Sun.

OLD JAPANESE ART

Swords of Perfumed Steel That Cannot Now Be Made.

MARVEL OF A CRYSTAL BALL

Rubbed Into a Perfect Sphere by Hand, It Would Be Difficult to Duplicate It With Modern Machinery—Legend of the Secret of a Swordmaker.

Steel made more than 800 years ago, with a sweet odor put in so that the metal still retains the scent that is one of the secrets of an old Japanese sword maker described by Reginald F. St. Pere Valle of London. Mr. Valle is an amateur collector and his enthusiasm for the beauty of old Japanese art has carried him far back into the centuries.

Mr. Valle actually owned a sword of scented steel one time, but it was stolen from the office of his lawyer several years ago. He regards this loss as the greatest a collector could face and feels sure that he will never get that sword back again.

"The perfume was delicate and pleasing," he said. "It is not the only sword of the kind in the world. The royal collection at Vienna has one, and there are two or three more which have retained their fragrance for all these hundreds of years.

"The scent is actually a part of the steel. The sword was incased in a wood sheath, which gave forth no odor. The handle of the sword was of wood, which was easily removed and which gave no odor. The makers' names, father and son, were on the steel of the handle.

"I entertained a group of Sheffield steel men at my home several years ago and just as a surprise for them I had the sword on the table. They were boasting about what great steelmakers they were, and then I asked them to smell the sword. They were the most surprised men you ever saw.

"Steelmakers," I said. "There is some real art in making steel; let us see you equal that." They could not, of course.

Mr. Valle said that there are hundreds of mechanical tricks of the Japanese artisans of hundreds of years ago which have been lost. These men have made many articles which cannot be duplicated with modern machinery.

"I have in my home a crystal ball six inches in diameter," he said. "It is as round as a billiard ball; it will stand any test for roundness. That was made by hand several hundred years ago. It would be difficult to make it now with machinery, if it is possible; but think of the years of toil and the special ability required for a man to rub a block of crystal into a perfect sphere."

Mr. Valle said that old Japanese princes kept hordes of men at work, paying them fairly well. These men had food and lodging assured for the rest of their lives, and they didn't have to hurry with their work.

He told of one cabinet started by one man for the prince who employed him but who failed to finish it. He died and the prince died. The son of the artisan took up the work, expecting to finish it for the son of the former prince. They both died, and the cabinet was finally finished by the grandson of the original cabinetmaker and presented to the grandson of the original prince.

"There was one swordmaker who had the trick of making a dagger with a very hard steel point, which gradually grew softer toward the handle. He did this by taking a dagger blade of uniform hardness, packing it in clay which was thicker toward the handle. In this way when he heated the pack the heat was graded, being strong at the point and soft near the handle.

"The secret lay in the temperature of the water he put it in after heating it. No one could discover how hot the water was or how long he kept the mass in the water.

"He had several young men working for him, and one of these men, a trickster, was anxious to learn the secret. The old man prepared his bath in a private tent. One day he was coming out of the tent with a newly finished sword under his arm when the young man darted past him and stuck his hand in the water.

"The old man wheeled and struck out with his sword. He cut so quickly that he severed the young man's arm before the young man's nerves could convey any idea of the temperature of the water to his brain—or so they say."

One of the old swordmakers had the peculiar knack of making swords which, of themselves, continually searched for trouble. "Blood drinkers," these swords were named. There was one of them in the Bowes collection, which was sold in England seven or eight years ago.

"One of my friends bought this sword," said Mr. Valle. "He was explaining its peculiar nature to some of us. One of the men laughed at the superstition. Just as he was in the middle of a guffaw the sword slipped out of its sheath, the handle struck the floor and the point fell against his leg. He was severely cut. I saw this, and, while I myself don't attach any supernatural power to the sword, that series of facts keeps me from laughing at it."—New York Sun.

CUMMINS' SEAT SOUGHT.

Senatorial Contest Main Issue in the Iowa Primaries Today.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 29.—Aspirants for public office in Iowa will close the campaign tomorrow with their final appeals to the electorate. The state wide primary will be held Monday, when the people will decide whom they want for United States senator, governor and other offices. The campaign, though it has been considerably shorter than usual, has been exceedingly spirited, particularly during the past week or two.

Though the primary covers every office for which an election will be held in November, the interest in the senatorial contest overshadows all else. The issue at stake on the Republican side is whether Albert B. Cummins, who long has been an influential factor in the national councils of his party and has been seriously considered for the presidential nomination, shall be returned to the United States senate or shall be supplanted by Arthur C. Savage, a member of the Iowa state senate and a resident of the town of Adair. After casting about for a candidate for some time the anti-Cummins Republicans finally picked upon Savage as the man to make the race against him. The friends of Senator Cummins so far have not taken the Savage candidacy very seriously and they predict that Mr. Cummins will be renominated in the primaries by an overwhelming majority.

A feature of the contest of general interest lies in the fact that Senator Cummins has been the foremost advocate of the movement for a reunion of the Republicans and Progressives throughout the country. His renomination by a substantial majority will be taken as an indication that his plan has the endorsement of the rank and file of the Republican party.

Next to the fight for the senatorship the contest of much interest to be decided by the primaries is that over the Republican nomination for governor. Governor George W. Clarke, whose term will expire next January, is a candidate for renomination and has as an opponent Judge C. G. Lee of Ames. A third aspirant for the head of the Republican state ticket is in the field in the person of John W. Rowley of Keosauqua, who is making the race on a single plank platform of anti-capital extension. It is generally conceded that the contest is between Clarke and Lee, with the chances apparently favoring the present executive.

The Democrats have contests on for nearly all the places on the state ticket, but the interest within that party is centered almost wholly in the fight for the senatorship. Maurice Connolly of Dubuque, who represents the third district in congress, is the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Opposed to him is Edwin T. Meredith, a publisher of agricultural papers in Des Moines. Meredith has conducted an active and vigorous campaign, but the opinion seems to prevail that his chances of defeating Connolly for the nomination are rather slight.

Connolly is an able campaigner, is well known throughout the state and stands particularly strong with the working classes. He is generally looked upon as about the strongest candidate that the Democratic party could select to make the race against Senator Cummins.

The Progressive party is not concerned in the primaries, as the personnel of the state ticket to be put up by that party in November has already been agreed upon at a conference of the party leaders. The same is true of Prohibition party. The Progressive party choice for governor is George White of Nevada, and that of the Prohibitionists is Malcolm F. Smith of Cedar Falls. While the selections of the party conferences are not binding and other candidates may enter the field it is a practical certainty that the tickets named at the conference will be voted on at the election in November.

NOTES FROM THE LABOR WORLD.

Winnipeg will entertain next September the annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees.

Mayor Martin of Montreal has issued an order that in future all the official stationery in his office shall bear the union label.

Several hundred retail clerks of Sioux City, Iowa, have signed an application for a charter from the International Retail Clerks' association.

All international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have been asked to send delegates to a conference to be held in Indianapolis next month to promote the "forward label movement."

The supreme court of New Zealand has recently affirmed the decision of a lower court to the effect that it is illegal for any "registered" union to render financial assistance to workers outside the industry in which the members of the particular union are engaged.

A statement just issued by the bureau of labor statistics at Washington reports that the average wage per week in forty of the leading cities of the United States for more than sixty of the principal industries was higher on May 15, 1911, than on May 15, 1912, with the single exception of the mill work carpen-ters, which showed no change.

The trial of President Charles H. Moyer and some thirty other officers and members of the Western Federation of Miners who are under joint indictment charged with conspiracy in connection with the recent strike of copper miners in the Houghton mining district, is expected to be taken up by the court sitting in L'Anse, Mich., about the end of June or the beginning of July.

The American Institute of Child Life is an endowed corporation chartered under the laws of Pennsylvania as an educational institution without profit. In this state chapters have been formed in Centralia, Decatur, Danville, Lake Geneva, Shelbyville, Taylorville and other cities. The institute is two years old and is an outgrowth of the conference called for child welfare during the administration of President Roosevelt, a conference which resulted also in the establishment of the Children's Bureau at Washington. Its president is William Byron Forbush, a well known sociologist and the author of "The Coming Generation" and "The Boy Problem." Pres. Davis Starr Jordan, G. Stanley Hall, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, William A. McKever, president of the University of Kansas, and Mary E. Wolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college are among the members of the administrative board.

JUST COAX THE SPRING.

How to Start a Clock After Winding It Too Tightly.

If in winding a clock actuated by a spring you have given the key a turn too much and so have wound the spring so tight that the clock won't run you don't have to take the clock to a clock-maker to have the spring unwound. You can start it yourself if you will go about it the right way and exercise a little patience.

Jarring or shaking the clock does no good. What you want to do is to hold it up and turn it right and left quickly, but gently, to oscillate the balance wheel. The object of this, of course, is to set the clock in action and free the spring from the binding restraint upon it, give the spring a little play, a chance to exercise its own power. If your own strong arm were bound tightly to your side you couldn't use it at all, but if you could work your arm free just a little bit you could then break loose. It is so with the tightly wound clock spring. Give it just a little of play and it will then be able to exert itself.

With your first oscillation the balance wheel will stop after half a dozen ticks, but that has helped. Keep this up for ten or fifteen minutes and you will then have given the clock spring play enough to enable it to exert its own power and keep the clock going.—New York Sun.

How the Meat Supply is Kept Safe in One Alaskan Town.

"Very patriotic lot of people live here. I see," is the remark made by almost every newcomer to the frontier town of Kuik, Alaska, at the head of Cook's Inlet, when they see that almost every house is supplied with a flagpole.

And they are right about the patriotism, but it just happens that the poles are not for flags, but for meat.

Kuik is on the trail to Iditarod and the Kuskokwim valley, and in the summer the sled dogs and the flies are so thick that it is impossible to keep meat in ordinary caches near the ground.

There is no butcher shop in Kuik and the only fresh meat is moose or Alaska sheep brought in by the hunters. It's very handy for the housewives of Kuik to have the meat supply of the town up in the air. If hubby has poor luck with his gun and the supply runs out, all she has to do is to go to the door, pick out her neighbor who has the largest supply on hand and go borrow a steak or two.

The meat is fastened securely to a rope and it is run up to the top of the pole very much the same as a flag would be.—Milwaukee Journal.

"You are only partially correct," replied the first. "Some of the bullets come back. "Will you tell me why you are leaving, Sallie?" her mistress asked.

USING SERUM FOR CHOLERA IN HOGS

TWO METHODS OF TREATMENT ARE MOST FREQUENTLY USED

If Serum Is Good It May Be Given By Farmer Without Fear—Is Administered By Injecting It Deep Below Skin With Syringe.

At a recent conference of federal and state officials in charge of hog cholera work the method of applying the serum in practice were considered. There are two methods. In one the serum alone is used, producing immunity lasting from 30 to 90 days; in the other the virus of hog cholera and the serum are injected simultaneously—that is, virus at one point and serum at another. This latter is known as the "simultaneous method" and will produce active or lasting immunity. If the serum used in this simultaneous treatment is not good, or if the mode of application is faulty, disease may be set up in the treated herd. For this reason it was the general consensus of opinion at the conference that the simultaneous method should be used only by those who have had special training, and it was agreed that the ideal arrangement would be to allow its use only by federal and state veterinary officers.

The serum-alone treatment on the other hand, may be given by anyone without danger of causing hog cholera. If the serum is good the farmer may give it to his hogs without fear, provided it is administered in the proper way. While it would no doubt be best to have even the serum-alone always administered by a skilled agent, farmers may obtain good results if proper care is used. The farmer should remember that the serum-alone treatment is very different from the simultaneous treatment. The following advice regarding the use of serum is offered for farmers who can not obtain the services of a skilled agent.

Use of Reliable Serum Important. All serum cannot be depended upon and farmers are cautioned against putting implicit confidence in a serum merely because it is labeled "Anti-Hog Cholera." The serum must be prepared right in order to protect hogs. Farmers should use every effort to get a good reliable serum from the state college or from a reliable dealer.

Anti-hog cholera serum is most effective when used as a preventive. It will also cure a large number of hogs in the early stages of the disease. It is of much less value, however, for hogs that are visibly sick. The farmer should make careful preparations before beginning the inoculation. Hogs that are sick should be separated from the well and marked so as to distinguish them. The pen or enclosure where the injections are made should be clean and free from dust.

How to Administer Serum. The serum is administered by injecting it deep under the skin with a hypodermic syringe. Before beginning the injection of a herd, care must be taken to see that the syringes and needles are not only absolutely clean but that they have been previously boiled in water for 10 or 15 minutes. The purpose of the boiling is to kill the germs that may be on the instruments. Therefore, both needle and syringe should be kept clean and not allowed to become soiled during use, as by being laid on dirty plank, dropped on the ground, or touched with dirty hands. It is a good idea to spread a clean towel on the plank or table where the work is being done. Before using, the serum should be poured into some receptacle with a cover (as a jelly glass with a tin top), both the receptacle and cover having been sterilized by boiling in water before use. The glass should be allowed to cool before the serum is poured into it, and should always be covered except when serum is being taken from it.

The serum is injected directly into the tissues on the inner side of the thigh, or, better, into the loose tissues between the foreleg and the body. The needle is inserted into the skin perpendicularly to a depth of from one-half to one inch, depending upon the size of the hog. Before the injection is made the skin of the hog over the point selected for injection should be thoroughly cleansed by washing with soap and water, and the surface then scrubbed with some reliable disinfectant, such as compound solution of cresol (U.S.P.). This disinfectant can be procured at drug stores, and should be diluted before using by adding 1 part of it to 30 parts of soft water—U. S. Farmers' Bulletin 590.

NEW CHARTER FOR EDMONTON Edmonton, Alta., May 29.—Governor by elective commission, including the initiative, referendum and the recall, the preferential ballot, the adoption of adult suffrage and the elimination of plural voting on debatable issues, with alternative methods of electing commissioners and designated duties, are the outstanding features of the new charter to be submitted tomorrow to the city council of Edmonton by a special committee appointed by that body. The new charter is designed to make Edmonton "the freest city on the North American continent." The charter will be submitted to a popular vote, and if successful it will be presented to the Provincial legislature for approval at the fall session, making possible the election of a board of five commissioners early in December.

ACIDITY IN SOIL DESTROYS FERTILITY FREQUENTLY

Has Disadvantage Too of Promoting the Growth of Certain Weeds—Relation to Legumes Is Important.

(By A. R. Whitson and W. W. Weir, Wisconsin Experiment Station).

Soil acidity is detrimental to fertility in several respects. Perhaps the most important of these is that it is injurious to the growth of many leguminous plants, which have the power of fixing nitrogen from the air; second, it leads to the exhaustion of some of the mineral elements necessary for plant growth, chiefly phosphorus and calcium; and third, it is favorable to the development of certain weeds.

Relation of Acidity to the Growth of Legumes. It is well known that the use of leguminous plants, such as clover, for maintaining the nitrogen supply of the soil is one of the most important principles in successful agriculture. While the full explanation of this relation was not discovered until thirty years ago, the growth of some kind of legume has been an important part of the agriculture of many of the greatest agricultural peoples of all history. We now know that these leguminous plants are able to use the nitrogen of the air for their growth through the work of certain kinds of bacteria, or germs, which penetrate the smaller hair-like roots of these plants, causing a development of abnormal swellings, called nodules. Within these nodules the nitrogen from the soil air is "fixed" in some way, that is, the nitrogen gas is built up into compounds which the legume plants can eventually use in their growth. Under proper conditions, therefore, these plants can get their nitrogen from the air, and can thus grow on soils which do not contain nitrogen in the form of nitrates or ammonium compounds, as is necessary for the growth of other crops.

Some of these nitrogen fixing bacteria do their best work in soils well supplied with lime. The bacteria which form nodules on medium red clover, alfalfa and sweet clover for example, do not develop well or flourish (except on new land) in soils that are acid. On the other hand, the bacteria which develop nodules on the roots of some other legumes, such as cow peas, lupines and serradella, are able to grow well even if the soil is somewhat acid, and so far as known cause fixation of nitrogen in spite of the acidity.

Legumes are grown for two purposes, viz., to fix free nitrogen, thereby making unnecessary the purchase of commercial nitrogen fertilizers, and to provide excellent food for both human and animal use. Medium red clover, mammoth clover, and alfalfa can fix more nitrogen in a season than those legumes which can grow on acid soils; furthermore, they are better forage crops than most, if not all, of the legumes which will grow on acid soils, because they can be more readily made into hay. In the case of alfalfa, it yields larger amounts of valuable feed than do any of the legumes which thrive on acid soils. For these reasons, therefore, it is desirable, wherever practicable, to correct the acidity of the soil and grow clover or alfalfa, rather than to leave it uncorrected and grow legumes, which will grow on acid soils. Nevertheless, where the cost of lime for this purpose is too great on account of distance from an available supply or for other reasons, those legumes which will grow on acid soils should be used for the purpose of maintaining the nitrogen supply of the soil.

DAIRY FARMING IN COUNTRY OF DENMARK

CONDITIONS ARE SOMEWHAT LIKE THOSE WHICH EXIST HERE.

Danes Began Real Dairying Only About Forty Years Ago—Fertile Fields Have as a Result Followed in the Place of Those Which Were Poverty Stricken.

(E. M. Clark, Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois—In Hoard's Dairyman).

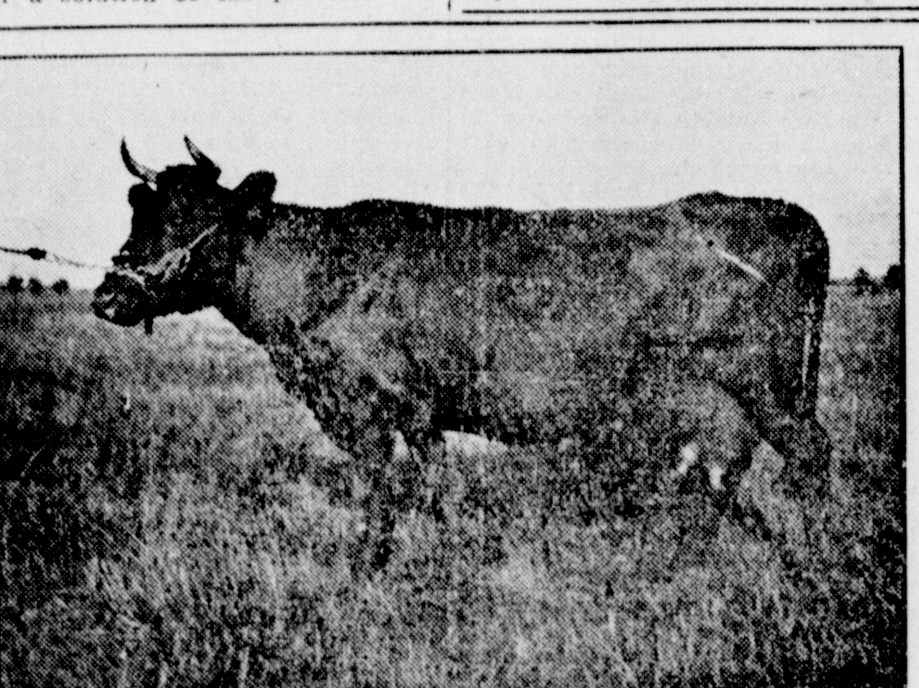

Dairy conditions in Denmark are probably more comparable to dairy conditions in America than are those of any other European country. This is largely due to the fact that the Danish dairy farmer uses the plow in his fields more than do his cousins in other dairy countries of Europe. For this and many other reasons Denmark is the country to visit if one wishes to learn the technique as well as the fundamental principles of dairy farming.

A Danish small holder's cottage is usually very neat and picturesque.

It was only two score years ago that the thrifty Danes started to practice dairying in earnest. The Prussian wars had left their little country in a state of ruin, and as the existence of its people depended upon agricultural pursuits, grain farming was practiced very extensively. Denmark's soil is naturally light in character and consequently crop yields rapidly decreased. Very fortunately the Danes realized that the ultimate result of such a system would be land ruin so they set about for a solution of the problem. In

A typical red Danish cow.

Great Britain a strong demand for butter and bacon was found and this marks the beginning of the rapid change in Denmark from wheat raising in dairy farming barren lands to fertile farms, from poverty to prosperity.

The little island of Seeland, on which the city of Copenhagen is located, lies to the east of the mainland or Jutland. It is on this small island that the most intensive dairying is practiced, for in Copenhagen a good market for whole milk is found. Riding through the country from Korsor on the west to Copenhagen on the east, passing through the famous old town of Roskilde, one receives a very favorable impression of Danish farming.

This is especially true if the traveler has just visited the agricultural districts of Germany, where the common draft animals in the fields are the slow paced oxen. Horses and modern farm tools are used by the Danes and there seems to be more vigor and progressive spirit in all their farm operations than is found in the countries to the south.

Two distinct breeds of dairy cattle are found in Denmark which have been developed by careful selection and breeding from native scrub stock. On the island of Seeland practically all of the cows are the Red Danish, while in Jutland the common type is the Black and White, although a good many herds of the Reds are found on the mainland. The Black and White cows in Denmark are not Holsteins and so far as history goes they bear no relation to them, as one at first might think. As compared with Holsteins they have shorter legs and are smaller in size, yet they have the dairy conformation and serve their purpose well.

Denmark is the land of small holdings, rural credit, cows and co-operation. In these respects it differs from most other countries, and a better combination would be hard to find. The landlord is usually the farmer himself who farms a few acres of ground purchased through the aid of the rural credit societies. A few cows, several white bacon hogs, a small flock of hens help these small farmers to pay off the debt on the land. If by chance his acres are not numerous or fertile enough to support his family, the farmer hires himself out at odd times to his more fortunate neighbors. Perhaps the co-operation spirit of the Danes has done more for their financial welfare than any other one factor. It is this spirit of working together for the mutual benefit of all which should be more prevalent in American agricultural districts. If American agriculture was not prosperous, relatively speaking, it is entirely probable that the farmers would take to co-operation more readily. However, it is universally true in America that co-operative communities are more prosperous than those in which cooperation is lacking.

Clean Quarters and Good Ventilation Will Do Much to Keep Hogs Healthy—Corn Does Not Furnish All of the Flesh Building Qualities Needed.

(Wilbur J. Carmichael, Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois)

The invasion of cholera does not insure a clear path to the majority of cases. Beside it, there are a number of other problems such as the control of parasites, worms, and lice especially, which are more common and cause more loss than is generally conceded. Clean surroundings and careful disinfection will usually handle these, but they will need to be given more vigorous treatment in bad cases. In these some internal treatment for the worms and an oil bath for the lice will usually eradicate the trouble.

The problem of shelter is usually comparatively simple where a corner in one of the sheds is set aside for the hogs or a few small outhouses provide the requisite warmth in winter and shade in summer. Either of these, or modifications of them, will answer the purpose as a rule, but where large numbers are kept, it is better to have one rather large house set aside for their exclusive use and have this supplemented with the smaller cots. No matter which system of housing is used, ample provision should be made for conveniences and cleanliness. Ventilation and sunlight are indispensable. Cement floors for feeding, cement troughs and cement floors for houses are advisable unless some other material equally satisfactory can be secured at a lower price.

The question of feeds is one which should be given more attention by hog raisers generally than it has in the past. Many who have tried to make a bushel of corn alone produce the ten pounds of grain on all ages of hogs have failed to make good. Why? The main reason is that corn does not furnish all of the food nutrients in the proper proportion necessary for the best development of the animal body. It must be supplemented with some form of nitrogenous feed if we will get the most economical returns and keep the animals in good thrifty condition, ready to stand various hardships which they will encounter from time to time. Some of the best supplements available on farms or on the open market at reasonable prices, considering their feeding value, are: Skim milk or butter milk, tankage or meat meal, middlings, oil meal (old process), bran, soy beans, cowpeas, oats, barley and legume hay and forage. The ones which should be used in any given locality at any given time should be determined largely by the local conditions as regards price, quality of feed available, distance to be transported, etc.

There is often a question in regard to the breed of hogs to be kept or about the kind of stock to be used in producing market hogs which come from almost any source. In general there is no one best breed. They all have their good points and all have some detracting features. It is the problem for the individual going into the business to select the good animals adapted to his purposes and of the breed he likes, or showing a predominance of that blood and mating them with a good pure bred boar in every case. It is not a good plan to skip around and use a boar of one breed one year and one of another the next, and so on, but rather, to stay within the one breed and produce as uniform animals as possible. Cross breeding is not generally recognized as being a good practice because breeding stock is lost unless all of the old females are to be kept over and none of the young ones reserved for the next year from the gilts of that season.

Where the sows are well cared for, there is no very obvious reason why they will not produce two litters per year. There are a number of sows in the university herd which have farrowed regularly spring and fall and both they and the litters are thrifty and strong. However, sows will not give birth to two good litters annually unless they are given a little better care than they usually receive on most farms. It is a good plan to have them raise one litter during the first year and a half of their life and, after that, they will be able to produce two regularly each year.

If the swine growers will keep the surroundings clean, use plenty of nitrogenous supplements with the corn, allow free access to good pastures, provide ample shelter, cull shy breeders and inferior ones, use good males and keep on the guard for disease, fighting it intelligently when it comes—there is little reason for failing to make a handsome profit with the present prices of feed and pork.

AFTER LONG ABSENCE.

F. H. McVey of 322 West Walnut street has returned from a visit to his old home at Wilmington, Delaware, a place he has not visited for fifty years. He says he found few who looked familiar and several whom he had never seen before. He is a gray haired and venerable man. While away he visited Philadelphia, Niagara Falls, Washington and other places of interest.

NOTES FOR FARMERS.

Amount of Feed for Dairy Cows. The following brief and simple rules will aid in determining the amount of feed required by each cow:

1. Feed all the roughage, such as alfalfa, corn silage, etc., the cow will eat up clean.
2. Feed approximately one pound of grain for every three pounds of milk produced per day.
3. Give the cows as much feed as they will consume without gaining in weight.
4. Feed some succulent feed, such as corn silage or roots, to make the ration more palatable.
5. Be prepared to supplement the pastures by feeding silage when the dry season sets in.

Selecting the Dairy Cow.

The essential points of a good dairy cow are indications of constitutional vigor, food capacity, development of the nervous system, good blood circulation, and the ability to produce milk abundantly.

1. Constitution.—Well distended nostrils and good heart girth due to breadth and depth of chest are the best indications of that quality of health and vigor commonly preferred as a constitution.

2. Food Capacity.—Great length from shoulder to hip bones, together with great width and depth of barrel, indicates well developed digestive organs, which enable the cow to consume and digest large quantities of food.

3. Nervous System, or Nervous Temperament.—A good dairy cow is active and intelligent. Large bright eyes, set rather far apart, a broad, well dishd face, and a spare and angular form are good indications of nervous temperament.

4. Blood Circulation.—A good circulatory system is necessary to carry the digested food from the abdominal region to the udder. The milk veins should be large, tortuous, and branching, entering as many large wells as possible.

5. Producing Ability.—The digested food is converted into milk only after reaching the udder. A large udder that is soft and pliable but not flabby when empty, and well developed forward and attached rather high behind, and teats of medium size and squarely placed are the best indications of the cow's producing ability.

Five Essentials in Dairy Herd Management.

1. The sire is more than half the herd. Be sure that the sire heading your dairy herd will transmit dairy characteristics.
2. Weed out the unprofitable cows by the use of the Babcock test and the scales.
3. Raise and keep all heifer calves from the best cows.
4. Winter dairies as much as possible under your conditions. It gives you more milk, better prices, and at less cost.
5. Provide comfortable quarters for milk cows.—Press Bulletin, No. 44, Nebraska Experiment Station.

Use of Quick Lime Not Recommended.

Question: W. T. inquires how he can grow alfalfa successfully and also in regard to the use of quick lime.

Answer: It will be necessary for you to apply limestone to your soil before you can grow alfalfa with much success with growing alfalfa. I should advise putting on at least two tons per acre of the ground limestone and I think the price of $1.35 delivered at Cayuga is a very price to pay. We do not advise the use of quick lime or air slacked lime, as it is more expensive than ground limestone rock and tends to burn out some of the organic matter in the soil. The soil as you say in your letter is very deficient in organic matter and it is almost out of the question to think of the applying manure, but where you feel that you must have organic matter, I would suggest that you grow a crop of cow peas of soy beans, preferably cow peas, of a rank growing variety and turn these under to furnish the desired organic matter. This will not be as expensive as manure and will furnish a large amount of plant food. This will, of course, take a year's time, and it is almost impossible to secure a stand of alfalfa after growing a crop of peas or beans, but it would be better to take an extra year and be sure of your crop. However, if you can arrange to give this field an application of limestone you would get fairly good results by seeding your alfalfa at once. I would seed this early in the spring with a nurse crop of beardless barley of about three pecks per acre, cutting this barley crop for hay before it is ripe. If some of your land is not in place to seed early in the spring, you could plow it and seed it as soon after June 15 as you feel you have moisture enough to start the alfalfa. For June seeding do not use a nurse crop, as all the moisture will be needed to keep your alfalfa growing.

You will gain some benefit from the use of rock phosphate without organic matter when seeding alfalfa, but it will not be so beneficial where you use it in connection with fresh organic matter.—O. S. Fisher, Agronomy Department, U. of I.

Controlling the Flies.

1. Screen the house.
2. Avoid filth or any other fly attracting material about the premises, such as garbage or shavings. Garbage and kitchen refuse should be kept in tightly covered vessels. Never throw it on the ground. It will be sure to attract flies.
3. Screen privy closets. Have every closet provided with such a barrel of air slacked lime and use freely to dry up the closet material.
4. Manure is valuable. When re-

VARIATION NEEDED IN CATTLE BUSINESS

FARMER HAS MORE THAN BEEF PRODUCTION TO CONSIDER.

A Great Deal of Waste Land in Illinois Should Be Kept in Permanent Pasture—Right System in Feeding Cattle Will Not Crowd Farmer With Work.

(By Walter F. Handschin, Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois)

In previous articles in the Corn Belter we have stated that it is highly desirable that we establish rotations that will keep up the nitrogen and organic matter, even though some of the crops included are less profitable than corn, or some other more profitable crop for the section. Just so in the production of beef, either in the purchase and finishing of feeders grown elsewhere, the production and finishing of calves from start to finish; or a combination of these two systems, which is often advisable, many factors other than the immediate profits on the beef producing enterprise must be considered.

In the first place, in central Illinois, in all but a few counties, there is more or less waste land which should be kept in permanent pasture. In many other sections of the states, permanent pastures should make up a major part of live stock production, of which beef production makes up a substantial proportion. Although it is not absolutely necessary to keep live stock to maintain soil fertility, it is significant that the feeding of practically all crops produced on the farm helps to conserve and increase soil fertility, if the manures produced are carefully handled.

It is also important to keep in mind that in planning systems of permanent agriculture for the corn belt, a system of production in which all crops fed, and all straw, clover, etc., converted into manure and carefully husbanded, it is possible to increase the corn area in the rotation to about 40 per cent and still have a permanent system. While this is no more and, in fact, a less proportion of corn than many of our farmers are now growing, we must keep in mind that very few farmers are maintaining or increasing the producing capacity of their soils. And where this is not done, the yields must gradually decrease and this, if continued, must eventually lead to a decrease in the value of land. If we assume that corn is the most profitable of our general crops, this becomes a very significant factor in choosing a system of farm production even in the most typical corn belt counties.

In the production of beef, there are also factors, the value of which beef makers should not lose sight of. Beef making, especially where feeders are bought, requires a minimum investment in buildings and equipment, an item which sometimes runs so high as to materially cut into the profits of live stock production.

On farms where the essential business is producing crops, beef production (especially winter feeding) enables practically the entire working force to put all of its energies into the work of producing crops during the summer and while some reduction in man labor is necessary in winter, a part of the man and horse labor can be profitably employed during the winter months in caring for the cattle. Beef production furnishes a farm market for practically all crops produced, thus greatly reducing the cost of marketing.

Feeding cattle also produce more or less work, according to the system of feeding employed, and while they are usually charged with all feeds consumed at farm value, they are frequently not credited with the work produced, since this item can often not be even approximately determined. When all of these factors are considered, even though their actual influence on farm profits cannot yet be accurately determined, it is important to keep in mind that beef making in order to justify its place in our systems of farm production, need not necessarily show a large profit on each particular lot produced, nor even on the entire enterprise as carried on from year to year.

moved from the stalls at a time when it cannot be immediately spread on the field, then it should be stored in a definite place, preferably in a compost shed or pit. To have measures scattered or placed at numerous places about the barn is wasteful and it makes it very difficult to maintain sanitary conditions.

5. Spray the manure, whether in stalls or elsewhere, with the arsenite of soda spray, once every ten to fourteen days. Like many of our common sprays this solution is poisonous and must be kept out of the reach of children and stock. The arsenite of soda should be kept closed and together with the pump containing the spray should be kept under lock and key when not in use. In lively barns and farm barns where a spraying plant has been installed the pump should be elevated. This allows easy approach by the operator and yet is out of reach of children or live stock. Sprayed manure is not injurious to chickens.
6. Use the fly trap judiciously about the barns, privy closets, chicken door, etc.—South Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, Circular No. 23.

STOCKS MOVE IN SAME NARROW GROOVE OF PRECEDING SESSIONS

Such Initiative as Might Have Been Shown Was Largely Nullified by the Approaching Holiday.

New York, May 29.—On a steady diminishing volume of operations today's stock market moved in the same narrow groove which characterized the preceding sessions of an uneventful week. Such initiative as the list might have shown was largely nullified by the approaching holiday.

Closing prices were fairly steady, with the exception of New Haven which developed weakness.

Missouri Pacific issues were watched with uncommon interest because of the approach of the time for definite action in connection with the $25,000,000 note issue.

Baltimore and Ohio and New York
Central were under pressure while
St. Paul dropped at times on the new financing under negotiation by the company. Early selling of United States steel was traced to offering from London. Local banks made an actual cash loss of about $4,000, 000 for the week, with a reserve decrease of about $2,000,000. Money continued so abundant that a thirty day loan at two percent was reported.

Culinary Notes

Nourishing Drinks.

Premature old age is often caused by not knowing how and when to take food. This extreme is as bad as that which loads the body with waste, causing food poisoning, but in the main, especially among women, the rasped nerves and the tired drawn lines in the face show the marks of a poorly balanced nutrition.

The following are a few recipes prepared and of a practical nature for making nutritious food drinks:

Egg and Milk.—Put a fresh egg and a glass of milk in a shaker. Shake thoroughly, sweeten and flavor to taste. This may be taken hot or cold.

Beer and Milk.—Add a teaspoonful of good beef extract to a cup of scalding milk.

Orange Tea.—Peel and take off all of the white skin from an orange. Put a slice in each cup and pour over it a light colored hot tea. A very refreshing drink.

Sentimental Punch.—For a hot beverage, melt six teaspoonfuls of grated chocolate in a saucepan. Add to it quickly six cupfuls of boiling milk. When the chocolate is thoroughly dissolved add a tablespoonful of sherry, a teaspoonful of vanilla extract and two tablespoonfuls of good clear coffee. Sweeten to taste and serve hot, with some whipped cream if desired.

Outmeal Nectar.—Put four ounces of oatmeal into a porcelain kettle, add six ounces of white sugar and a lemon sliced thin. Mix with a little cold water; then pour on one gallon of boiling water. When served hot or cold it is a nourishing and refreshing drink.

The Sunday Dinner.

Why Sunday should be sacred to a midday dinner and the balance of the day devoted to digestion is not evident. It does seem rather material that so much meat should be sacrificed to mere feeding, when it is possible to have a good hot meal that will not require more than a half hour in its preparation.

If it must be a roast, a loin of veal, a leg of pork or a pair of chickens will be just as good if they are roasted on Saturday and set away in the dripping pan and given the last half hour in a good hot oven on the day of serving. A steak needs but little time and loin chops are better than the average leg of lamb.

Potatoes, if boiled for twenty minutes in their skins, can be finished in the oven during the same half hour, or cold boiled ones can be browned in the pan with the heating roast. If chops are the choice, the frying of potatoes in deep fat is a matter of a few minutes.

Spaghetti, with cheese or tomato sauce, is a good substitute for potatoes, and the browning can be done in a few minutes. Any of the green vegetables can be boiled the day before, drained and reheated with butter. Cauliflower or onions can be rejuvenated with their cream dressing, and those vegetables that require long cooking can safely be simmering while the housekeeper is at church.

Herb Window Garden.

A few helps to the housekeeper in the shape of garnishes for various foods are acceptable when green things are at such a premium.

A pot of sprouting chives can be kept green in the kitchen window sill for weeks and with little care will grow nicely.

Pots of parsley grow well in cold weather, if started in a warm place. A box of parsley could easily be grown in a sunny sheltered window, and proves invaluable to the housekeeper. A pot or two of mint, which grows so easily, is also a good hint for garnishing. These are only a few of the herbs that can be grown on the kitchen window sill.

It would really be a kindness to the cook to start some of these pretty green plants growing in her kitchen, as many cooks neglect to beautify the foods by decorating, simply because they do not have the materials at hand.

The Milk Bottle.

Many people, after ordering their milk from a good dairy, think that is all that there is to be done toward securing sweet, pure milk, but the way the milk bottle is cleaned and the way the bottle is put away afterward also have much to do with the problem of good milk.

The milk bottle has ample time to be contaminated with every known kind of germ before it is delivered, and so the safest way to cleanse bottles of these germs is by putting the bottle under the faucet and giving it a good bath before it is opened.

The cap and mouth of the bottle are thus thoroughly cleansed and may then be dried with a clean towel. It is much safer not to put the old pastebord cap on the bottle again, for ten chances to one before the setting sun it will be found missing, and, besides, it soon becomes soiled with much handling.

When Choosing Food.

In working out a ration it is necessary to consider not only the food value of each thing eaten, but it is necessary to give it conditions which will not hamper it and keep it from giving up all its power.

An unpleasant consciousness of our digestive process is all too frequently due to the unfortunate combinations we make, and in this matter we are often the abject slaves of tradition.

REV. C. D. HOUGHAM TO LEAVE CHRISTIAN CHURCH AT CHAPIN

Will go to Bloomington, After Two Years of Efficient Service With Morgan County Congregation.—Last Sermon Sunday.

Rev. C. D. Hougham, minister of the Chapin Christian church for nearly two years, has tendered his resignation to the congregation and will close his work next Sunday.

Mr. Hougham was called to the Christian church at Chapin in July, 1912, so that it will be just one month short of two years the first of June.

He has earned the confidence of all the members of his church and there is a general feeling of regret at his leaving at this time. The membership of the church has increased substantially during Mr. Hougham's stay, he having held one meeting himself and one meeting held by Evangelist Rochester Irwin and wife. Probably his greatest work with the Chapin church has been his own example of quiet, earnest Christian living. "The leaves the congregation in a good condition to keep up the work and with no factions nor discord present."

Mr. Hougham's resignation was a surprise to the church and was only accepted when he told them he was firm in his determination to sever his connection with the congregation. His reason for leaving at this time is the condition of his wife's health and also the fact that he wishes to be near his aged mother, who lives near Bloomington, and to superintend farming interests there. Rev. Mr. Hougham states he will continue to preach as much as he is able, but will probably not take a regular charge.

He will preach at the church in Chapin next Sunday morning at 11 a. m. on the subject, "A Message to the Chapin Church," and his farewell sermon will be delivered Sunday evening and his subject will be, "A Message to Chapin People."

It is earnestly requested that all the members and friends try to attend one or both of these services next Sunday.

The church has not made any definite arrangements toward securing a minister to take the pulpit, but will probably not be without one long.

Mr. Hougham has made many friends during his stay in Chapin, both in the church and among others and all unite in wishing him good luck and happiness as he goes to his new field.

REUNION TROPHY RECEIVED AT ILLINOIS COLLEGE.

There is an exhibition in the show window of Russell & Lyon, a sterling silver loving cup or reunion trophy which was donated to Illinois college by the alumni of the institution in Chicago for the purpose of stimulating interest in class reunions. President Rammelkamp exhibited the cup at the chapel exercises Thursday morning, with a brief explanation as to its meaning and mention of the plan award. It is proposed to award the trophy to that class of whose living members the largest percentage returns for commencement time. Already the classes of '89, '99 and '12 are making preparation to compete this year.

The cup is a handsome article thirteen inches in length, with the inscription "Reunion Trophy presented by the Chicago Society of Illinois college by deed May 15, 1914 for the encouragement of class reunions at Illinois college."

TO CARE FOR THE TREES.

The young men's booster club has patriotically come forward and negotiated with the Illinois Tree Export company to trim, doctor and generally put in shape the trees in central park. The park commission is unable to do this work for lack of funds and it will be a great benefit to the trees to have them properly trimmed, the wounds dressed, rotten wood removed and work generally done such as will tend to promote the health and beauty of the fine trees which adorn central park.

The weeds and dead limbs and disfiguring material have been removed from reservoir park and that now presents a much more slightly appearance. There is a considerable amount of work in front of the reservoir grown up to blue grass and for the present nothing will be done with that as it is not unsightly.

BACH FESTIVAL AT LEHIGH.

Bethlehem, Pa., May 29.—Music lovers from several states have arrived here to attend the ninth annual Bach Festival given under the auspices of the music department of Lehigh university. The festival is one of the most notable affairs of its kind in this country. The participants include the Bach chorus of 200 voices, with several noted soloists. The instrumental music will be furnished by the Philadelphia orchestra.

LAST CHAPEL SERVICE.

The last chapel services of the Woman's college was held yesterday. After the exercises the winners of the various events in the field day received their badges.

New York, May 28.—Al Reich, former National amateur heavyweight champion, knocked out Soldier Kearns of Brooklyn in the sixth round of a ten round match here tonight. Young Mike Donovan, local middle-weight, knocked out Jack Denning.

The Road to Success.

The best brain effort and indigestion do not go hand in hand. If you would win a lasting success you must keep your stomach in good working order and your bowels regular. This is easily done if you go at it right. Mrs. C. C. Baker, Homer City, Pa., writes: "About two years ago I suffered from stomach trouble and constipation. After I began using Chamberlain's Tablets my condition improved. At the end of a week I could eat and sleep well." Sold by all dealers.—adv.

BREAKING ICE BARRIERS.

Dynamite and Little Tugs Lead the Assault on the Great Lakes.

Up on our great lakes winter holds those waters in a stiffened grip for several months, substantially putting an end to well nigh all traffic, but even so, it is the mission of certain of the big car ferry steamers to maintain something of an approximate schedule. However, every now and then the gathering ice packs catch and hold them despite the best the steamers can do, and it is only by using dynamite that they then succeed in breaking through these rigid barriers. Occasionally it is a veritable battle between titanic forces, and it takes courage for officers and crew to maintain the struggle. Success is not always the fruit of these strenuous efforts, because it is still fresh in the minds of many how gallant Captain McLeod and thirty others perished aboard the Marquette when that ship foundered in December, 1909.

What strikes one most forcibly, if he has seen winter conditions upon the great lakes, is the manner in which little tugs are used to break a passage clear for large steamers when their big kin are quite incapable of working their own way through the ice, notwithstanding their greater bulk and far more powerful engines. The secret lies in the fact that the tugs are able to roll about after poking their noses into the floe, and in this manner they attack the ice in a direction where it is least capable of offering effective resistance. Instead of assaulting the ice edge on where it is supported by hundreds of yards—if not, indeed, by several miles of solid pack—the small craft bear down upon a thickness of so many inches, and by sheer weight and the rapid shifting of this by a rocking motion, they force it asunder.

The big steamers upon the great lakes, especially the large car ferries, could do this very thing for themselves, and do it upon a greater scale, if they could be given the needful rolling motion, but the difficulty lies in finding a way to effect this.—Technical World Magazine.

FICKLE FORTUNE.

Romance of a Discredited Gold and Copper Mine.

When the great mineral wealth of this nation has been finally developed a chronicler will write the "American Arabian Nights of Mining." One of the tales, all of which will be true, will run somewhat as follows:

Once upon a time there was a poor man of the name of Billy Harris, who lived at Spokane, Wash. He was a horseman, among other miscellaneous activities, and had acquired a considerable block of stock in a certain Leroi Mining company, having taken most of it in payment from those who owed him money and who had no other assets more tangible. This stock had kicked about without a sponsor for two years and was nominally quoted at around 10 cents a share.

One day a friend came along with a handsome stallion, and Billy looked up on the animal with covetous eyes. Dickering began and ended by his paying over $5,000 of the stock for the stallion. The seller, on sober reflection, became dissatisfied with his bargain and brought suit to recover the horse. He won, and Billy, with a sigh, took back his stock and bade the animal a fond farewell.

Eighteen months later Billy sold the same stock for $250,000 and the remainder of his holdings for as much again. The Leroi mine was taken over by Whitaker Wright and an English syndicate and produced $40,000,000 in gold and copper. It is not on record what the original owner of the stallion said or thought—and perhaps it is just as well.—Wall Street Journal.

Example of British Humor.

The late Lord Salisbury had a pretty wit. At the beginning of the South African war both his private secretaries volunteered, and they were followed, says the London Express, by the Duke of Norfolk, who asked to be allowed to resign his post of postmaster general and go to the front. "I suppose you may," said Lord Salisbury, "but I do hope Cross won't want to go." Lord Cross was then lord privy seal and was nearly eighty!

They Learn Early.

Bessie was sitting on the hotel veranda one afternoon when another child, gaudily dressed, began to parade up and down before her, dishing her fan and swishing her skirts airily. Bessie stood it as long as she could, but finally burst out: "Dresses an' fans does not make ladies."

"But they helps," the other flung back over her shoulder as she sauntered away.—Delineator.

Source of His Love.

"Do you like your new mamma, Harry?" "Yes, I like her awful much." "That is nice. Do you like her because she is pretty?" "No. I like her 'cause I broke her nicest vase yesterday and she blamed it on the maid."—Judge.

Getting it All.

"What can I bring you today, sir?" "I hardly know. The doctor says I must have carbohydrates and protoids, and I want something nitrogenous, I think."

"Yes, sir. How about an order of hash?"—Pittsburgh Post.

Persistent Girl.

Ethel—Have you heard of Jack's engagement to Eleanor? Harold—Dear me, no! Then Jack has finally succeeded? Ethel—No. Succumbed Lou don Tattler.

DELEGATES RETURN FROM ELKS CONVENTION.

Gathering Was Largely Attended—Officers Elected.

The Jacksonville delegates to the state convention of the Elks at Peoria have returned home jubilant over the occasion which they claim was the largest and most enthusiastic in the history of the order in this state, while the parade has only been equaled by similar affairs in Chicago.

Thursday night there was a grand banquet at the Jefferson Hotel at which two hundred and fifty sat down, the menu was elegant and everything was in keeping with the grandeur and importance of the occasion. Hon. Chas. Williamson of Quincy was toastmaster and among the after dinner speakers was Harry Ticknor, formerly of this city.

The convention was honored by the presence of several national officers among them the Grand Exalted Ruler, Edward Leach of New York; Grand Secretary, Frederick Robinson of Dubuque; Grand Treasurer, Mr. White of Chicago, and one grand trustee.

WERE ON THE STEAMSHIP EMPRESS OF IRELAND.

Five years ago S. W. Nichols, Mrs. Elizabeth English and her daughters Misses Margaret and Frances, crossed from Liverpool to Quebec on the ill fated steamship Empress of Ireland. She was a beautiful craft while largely predominating in her painting, while decorations of gold and colors were abundantly bestowed. The accommodations were elegant and all about the great steamship was strictly first class. She was six days from Liverpool to Quebec and only four on salt water entering the gulf of St. Lawrence the 5th day and standing by several hours while U. S. custom officers examined the baggage of passengers looked for the states. The customs officials were very polite and courteous making just as little trouble as possible, though attending to their duty all right.

The voyage on the salt water part was quite rough and disagreeable and the Jacksonville passengers spent much of their time in their berths but were all right when the ship entered the gulf. The ship's officers were gentlemanly in their deportment and the voyage was quite successful. There were nearly 1200 steerage passengers bound mostly for points in Canada. One of room mates of the writer was Canon Thompson, a dignitary of the church of England. The knowledge that man had of the bible was simply marvelous while he was humble and modest as any man could be. He had a bushel of tracts and good reading and spent much of the time among the steerage passengers doing them all the good he could.

Commission of J. J. Reeve Expired Thursday and Change Will Probably Be Made Soon as Necessary Formalities Are Carried Out.

Ralph I. Dunlap received a telegram Friday from Henry T. Rainey congressman from Illinois, stating that his nomination as postmaster at Jacksonville had been confirmed by the senate.
